New and Sharper Cold Wave Heading for Ohio

FRIGID SPELL TO REMAIN AT LEAST 3 DAYS

Forecast Indicates Little Snow Will Accompany Drop In Temperatures.

AKRON DAMAGED BY GALE

Mercury Skids After Rainy Sunday, Glazes Streets With Ice and Snow.

Another cold wave, described as more severe than the one last week, which sent the mercury to 4 below in Mansfield is due to envelope the Richland county section tonight to stay for at least three days, forecasts said today.

Forerunner of the frigid wave, a half-inch snow fell in Mansfield last night when the mercury tumbled 27 degrees, changing a heavy rain to sleet and then to snow within an hour.

Although streets and roads were glazed with ice following the temperature drop, only minor accidents were reported, and there was little indication today that the new storm would bring any great amount of snow to this section.

Fair But Colder.

The skies will clear tonight and tomorrow will be fair and considerably colder, the forecast predicted.

Most of the seven-inch snow blanket which covered this section of the state last week was washed away by rain Saturday night and Sunday when the mercury climbed to a high of 47 degrees.

"Through an unusual wind shift, the temperature in Mansfield fell five degrees in a short time before noon and then went back up six degrees at noon, Observer Enos Sprunger reported. The low for the day was 15 degrees at 11 a. m., which was five degrees lower than the reading early today. At noon the mercury stood at 21 above zero.

Gales and snow flurries carried the new cold wave into the middlewest yesterday and at Akron the high winds caused considerable damage to communication lines.

Drop 40 Degrees In Illinois.

Temperatures fell as much as 40 degrees in five hours in Illinois where ice jams caused the Rock river to overflow its banks for the second time in a week to rout scores of families in low-lying areas.

An ice blockade periled 35 families on Smith island, near Dixon, who prepared to evacuate.

Snow plows were again brought into use in Wisconsin and Michigan which had just emerged from one of the worst blizzards in history. High winds drifted the deep snow across roads, and at Milwaukee 75 persons were given emergency treatment at hospitals for injuries suffered in falls on icy sidewalks.

January Traffic Toll Shows Drop Of 67 Per Cent

With the first month of the year practically gone, Mansfield's traffic death toll for 1938 shows a drop of 67 per cent as compared with the same month last year, a check of traffic figures today indicated.

Richland county had but one fatal accident this month, on Jan. 7, when Joseph F. Uhlich, 70, was killed at the Bowman street crossing of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad.

In January, 1937, however, three persons lost their lives in Richland county accidents, and the total for the year was 27.

In Ohio, seven persons lost their lives over the week-end in traffic accidents, but authorities reported only two accidents in Richland county resulting in injury. In one, near the western county line, John B. Carter, Yonkers, N. Y., was hurt when his car left the road and turned over Saturday afternoon. He told highway patrolmen his car was crowded off the road. He was taken to Crestline Emergency hospital, suffering a broken shoulder blade.

Kittridge Laughman, 26 Ford street, suffered an injured arm this morning when the car in which he was riding, driven by David Meeting, 74 Altamont avenue, collided with the car of Roy Varney, 625 Scholl road at South Mulberry street and Glessner avenue. He was treated by a physician.

DEMANDS RELIEF JOBS

WASHINGTON—(AP)—John L. Lewis, writing to all CIO units, demanded today that the government provide 3,000,000 work relief jobs for the unemployed.

Allocation Eases Relief Crisis Here

$18,600 In State Funds To Be Held In Reserve For 'Matching.'

Richland county's relief picture, somewhat confused and dark, was brightened today by the receipt of $18,658 in relief bond funds from State Auditor Joseph T. Ferguson's office.

The allocation, which was the first made by the state for the 1938 relief program, came from the sales tax fund and was earmarked for retiring poor relief bonds.

Since the county will not need it for bonds, County Auditor Norman L. Wolfe said most of the money would be held in reserve for matching future distributions from the state under the new relief set-up enacted recently by the legislature.

Must Show Half.

The first of the $5,500 monthly allocations from the state is expected to be made about Feb. 10, and in order to obtain the funds, the law provides that the county and its sub-divisions must show half that amount in the relief fund.

Both the city of Mansfield and Madison township have been asked by the county commissioners to contribute to the matching fund, and the sub-divisions today awaited figures from county relief officials as to the amount that will be needed to provide for the county's needy during 1938. Both the city and township have agreed to help during the year. Neither the city officials nor township trustees were able to say how much they could spare from their general funds.

The relief situation is expected to be presented to city council Tuesday night, but Mayor Claude M. Hunter said it is doubtful if a specific request for funds will be made then.

He said a small amount could be appropriated from the general fund for relief purposes but a special levy or bond issue would have to be approved by the voters for any extensive relief operations.

Meanwhile, Miss Mildred Armstrong, who was succeeded last week by Earl A. Nist as county relief director, prepared today to open an office on the top floor of the courthouse for the adminis-

FIGHT DEATH

3 Burned In Blaze, In Which 5 In 2 Families Perished.

OXFORD — (U.P.) — Three persons were in a Hamilton hospital today, suffering from burns received in a kerosene explosion and fire which took the lives of five members of two families here Sunday.

Those burned to death were Mrs. Frank Boatright, 27; her daughters, Ila Mae, 8, and Peggy Jean, 14 months; Charles Garver, 6, and Phyllis Garver, 3.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Garver, parents of Charles and Phyllis, and their four-month-old daughter, Gloria, were in a hospital. Garver had severe burns on the face and chest. Mrs. Garver's burns were less serious. The baby's condition was not considered dangerous.

Mrs. Boatright arose early to build a fire. The five gallon can of kerosene she was using to kindle the fire exploded. She was enveloped in flames, which spread rapidly to two upstairs bedrooms in which the other seven were asleep.

SEWAGE REPORT DUE TOMORROW

The report of Bruce McDill, state board of health engineer, on his inspection of the Mansfield sewage disposal plant is scheduled to be submitted to F. H. Waring, chief engineer of the board, tomorrow, Associated Press dispatches to The News-Journal from Columbus said today.

McDill visited the plant, where operations have been considered unsatisfactory, last week, and his recommendations will be considered by the city before it finally accepts the plant and makes the final payment of $6,089 to the general contractor. The payment is due Feb. 6.

Mayor Claude M. Hunter is expected to be given a copy of the report.

SHOOTS WIFE, KILLS SELF

WARREN —(AP)— Mrs. Flora Morris Goers, 25, had severe wounds today which Policeman Emmet Morley said were the result of shots fired yesterday by her former husband, John Vlad, 28, who then killed himself. They were divorced two years ago.

Special Delivery! Young Travelers Use Shipping Tags for Chaperones

(AP Feature Service Writer)

THE custom of sending children long distances alone in custody of ship or railway officials, or simply tagged for delivery, seems to be increasing. Notable recent examples include . . .

ISADORE DUTHOY, Yonkers, N. Y., 8 weeks old, motherless, took little but his milk formula with him when he sailed from New York alone to make his home with an uncle in Belgium.

RALPH SCHMIDT, San Francisco, 8 years old, traveled alone by rail and ship to Berlin, Germany, for a two-year visit with his grandparents. A seasoned voyageur by the time this picture was taken, Ralph is shown with Chief Steward Sukdol of the President Harding as the liner stopped at Plymouth, England, en route.

ELINOR RICHARD, 8, orphan, is shown in New York on her arrival en route from Norway to San Francisco to live with an uncle. A sign pinned to her dress gives the shipping address.

HERTHA AND HELEN COELLN (you'll have to guess which is left and which right), Davenport, Ia., 4-month-old twins, are shown as they were packed for shipment to Schleswig-Holstein to live with a sister of their widower father. The tag on the bag directs their delivery to a steamship pier in New York, there to be trans-shipped to Germany.

PLAN STUDY OF WORLD AFFAIRS

Rotary and University Clubs Sponsor Institute of International Understanding.

Affording an opportunity for residents of the Mansfield area to study and discuss problems of international relations, the Mansfield Rotary and University clubs will sponsor an Institute of International Understanding over a five-week period, beginning Monday, Feb. 7, it was announced today.

The sessions, which will be held weekly in the Senior high school auditorium, will bring prominent speakers to the city for lectures on international problems.

"The institute is in reality an adult study course in international affairs," Harold A. Bruce, director of the institute, said, "with the aim of developing international outstanding and attempting to see how a friendly method of ironing out world problems may be approached constructively."

Bruce pointed out that the institute is purely a study course and that no resolutions will be passed, avoiding embarrassment to any group or individual participating.

The weekly sessions will be open to the public and no charge will be made for the meetings, it was explained. The expense of bringing the speakers here and conducting the institute will be paid by the two sponsoring clubs.

Names of speakers will be announced within a few days, members of the committee said.

NUNS RESCUE 12

Save Aged Residents From Home Wrecked By Blaze.

CONSHOHOCKEN, Pa. —(AP)— Twelve residents of St. Joseph's Home for the Aged hunted tearfully for a new haven today, muttering prayers of thanks for ten Nuns who rescued them from the burning 100-year-old structure yesterday.

"The Nuns acted like veteran firemen," said Assistant Fire Chief Terence Campbell. "There was no disorder."

ON WILD RIDE

CINCINNATI—(AP)—A Columbus attorney who works at night as a filling station attendant appealed to police for aid today, telling a story of a wild ride over icy roads from the Ohio capital in the company of two abductors who robbed him of $1.34.

The victim identified himself as Harry A. Mock, 29.

Induction Shifts 'Control' Of Highest Tribunal To Liberal Bloc Of 5—New Appointments Foreseen.

WASHINGTON—(U.P.)—Stanley Forman Reed was sworn today as associate justice of the United States supreme court. His assumption of a seat on the high bench shifts control of the tribunal to a liberal bloc of five justices.

Reed, President Roosevelt's second appointee to the court, swore the jurist's oath before his judicial colleagues in the quiet dignity of the supreme court chamber.

Seated Next to Cardozo.

Next to Reed's seat was the vacant chair of Justice Benjamin N. Cardozo who with Justices Louis D. Brandeis, Harlan F. Stone and Hugo L. Black comprises the liberal bloc which Reed's appointment augmented to a five-man majority. Cardozo is absent due to serious illness.

Cardozo's illness is a possible

STILL COUNTING

Roosevelt's Birthday Over But Dimes Jam Mails.

WASHINGTON —(AP)— President Roosevelt's 56th birthday anniversary is over, but the White House staff is going to be counting dimes —and larger coins — for several days.

Thousands of letters bearing contributions to the new national foundation for infantile paralysis piled up in the executive offices during the week-end.

The gifts will be added to receipts from birthday balls held in every state Saturday night. Keith Morgan, national chairman of the "Fight Infantile Paralysis" campaign, said at New York that incomplete returns showed all previous collections were surpassed.

Mr. Roosevelt, voicing his thanks in a radio talk, said:

EMPIRE CALLS BACK 270 MEN

Approximately 270 men will go back to work at midnight tonight in the south plant of the Empire Sheet and Tin Plate company, officials of the concern said today.

The resumption of activities is due to several orders received by the company, it was explained. Officials added that operations may continue for only a short period or several weeks.

The workers affected by the order have been idle since Jan. 3 when their department was shut down, the company said.

JURY RESUMES INQUIRY INTO O.S.R. RECORDS

'TIES IN' WITH PROBE

Hurley Says He Hopes to Wind Up Parole Investigation In County This Week.

After being in recess since Thursday afternoon, the special Richland county parole grand jury resumed sessions at the Mansfield reformatory today, continuing its check of reformatory records, and calling in two reformatory officials.

As it pursued its study of transactions, the grand jury heard brief testimony from three Mansfielders. They were Albert L. Wentz, now a deputy collector of internal revenue; R. W. James, formerly with the Mansfield Hay and Grain company, and Howard Hosler, now connected with the company.

Quiz Other Employes.

Assistant Attorney General George Hurley, who returned today from Columbus, said this testimony "tied in" with the parole investigation.

Also called to testify were A. T. Sneeringer, director of education at the institution, and W. A. McFadden, quartermaster. Hurley indicated that the rest of the day would be spent questioning reformatory employes and officials.

Hurley said he hoped to be able to wind up the investigation "some time this week" but said the exact date would depend on "developments."

Wentz, James and Hosler were in the grand jury room only a short time. Wentz said he had been connected with the Buchan Auto Supply company for many years, and while there had had some dealings with the reformatory. When it recessed last week, the jury was interested in transactions that occurred between 1925 and 1928. Wentz said he was with the Buchan company at that time.

Hear of Old Transactions.

James, who lives at 42 Stewart avenue, operated the Mansfield Hay and Grain company from 1916 to 1923, and it was believed he was questioned about transactions between the company and the reformatory during that period. Hosler has operated the company since James withdrew.

'REGRET' SLAP

Japs Send Formal Apology For Assault on U. S. Envoy.

TOKYO—(U.P.)—The Japanese government expressed profound regret over the slapping of United States Consul John M. Allison at Nanking today and promised "adequate punishment" of those responsible.

The regrets were expressed to United States Ambassador Joseph C. Grew by Knsuke Horinouchi, vice minister for foreign affairs.

Afterward, a foreign office spokesman said that Grew told Horinouchi he was satisfied with the explanations given, and the spokesman added that the incident was now closed.

In discussing the Japanese expression of regret and the promise to punish "adequately" those responsible, the spokesman said that a formal statement would be given to Japanese newspapers, as to the failure of newspapers to mention promises of punishment, the spokesman said that the newspapers individually had suppressed this feature.

"CJ Testing" International News Set to Start News-Journal Service

Leased Wire of Third Great Association Starts Tomorrow.

Those routine words came over the wire into The News-Journal telegraph room today on two shiny new "iron mikes" (teletype printers to you).

They were part of a line test, being run by International News Service, whose leased wire dispatches will be started by The News-Journal promptly at 7 a. m. tomorrow. "CJ" is the symbol for Columbus, control point in the INS Ohio set-up. The "quick brown fox" line is a routine used in all such tests.

Today, two new INS automatic printers were being set up in the wire room of The News-Journal, and given their final tests, so they'd be ready to start pouring forth news dispatches from all over the world.

For years, the News-Journal has been served by the Associated Press and United Press, each of which provides 27,000 words of dispatches in eight hours. The International News will add another 27,000 words, so that it will be practically impossible for any major event to occur anywhere in the world, without knowledge of it being made quickly available to News-Journal readers.

For years, the symbols "AP" and "UP" have been familiar to News-Journal readers. And tomorrow they'll see "INS" on news dispatches, too, giving you news gathered by all three of the world's greatest news services.

Girl For Juliana

HOLLAND LAUDS BABY PRINCESS

51-Gun Salute Heralds Birth of Daughter to Juliana, Starts Celebrations.

AMSTERDAM, THE NETHERLANDS—(AP)—Princess Juliana of [illegible] little land of tulips, thrift and windmills a girl princess who may be its third consecutive woman ruler.

The whole nation joined in rejoicing before the last echoes of the royal salute announced that the long wait at the white palace was ended with the birth of a girl.

Both the mother and baby were reported doing well.

A salute of 51 guns, instead of the 101 scheduled in the event of a boy, was fired.

The Netherlands populace had hoped for a male heir, who would have been the first in direct line to the throne in 54 years. Unless Juliana has a son the new princess may one day become queen, following her grandmother Queen Wilhelmina and her mother.

By royal decree of 1908 Juliana's baby is entitled from birth Princess of the Netherlands, Princess of Orange-Nassau and Duchess of Mecklenburg From her father she inherited the family title of Princess of Lippe-Biesterfeld.

Especially happy were the souvenir spoon and mug manufacturers who had engraved their wares.

ROOSEVELT'S SON TO WED JUNE 18

President's Youngest To Marry Anne Clark At Nahant.

BOSTON — (U.P.) — John Roosevelt, 21, youngest son of the president, and Miss Anne Lindsay Clark, 21, of Boston and Nahant, will be married June 18 in the little Nahant Episcopal church, according to Mrs. F. Haven Clark, the prospective bride's mother.

Among the 300 guests expected at the ceremony, which will follow John's final examination at Harvard, are President and Mrs. Roosevelt, Mrs. Sara Delano Roosevelt, the president's mother, John's three brothers, James, Elliott and Franklin D., jr., and their wives.

Franklin, jr., will be the best man, the same capacity in which John served at his brother's marriage to the former Miss Ethel DuPont last June.

HUNT EVIDENCE OF COLLUSION ON STATE JOBS

EXPLAINS 'BLACK BOOK'

Auditor Says 'Mystery' Report Contains Evidence About Liquor Department.

COLUMBUS —(UP)—The senate committee investigating graft in state government today turned its attention to reported irregularities in the state highway department, which does a $34,000,000 business annually.

The committee was understood to be investigating charges of collusion among bidders on state road projects. The entire process of bidding on state highway projects was to be studied by the committee.

Officials of organizations interested in "hot mix" highway materials probably will be summoned to testify, committee members said.

Tells About 'Black Book.'

State Auditor Joseph T. Ferguson said today that the "little black book" which his office turned over to the graft committee several weeks ago contains evidence his investigators gathered concerning the state liquor enforcement division.

The book became an important bit of evidence when Ferguson demanded its return and the committee refused to surrender it. The book contained a report of Thomas Bush and Bruce York of the auditor's office.

"I asked for the return of the report so that I could examine it further and sign the report," Ferguson said. "There is [illegible] the book over to the newspapers as soon as I get it back from the committee. So far as I am concerned, Mr. Metzenbaum (James Metzenbaum, committee counsel) can make its contents public at any time.

"The report is public record or it will be as soon as it is signed by me, as state auditor, in the regular fashion. It contains evidence upon which the committee acted in investigating the Joseph Maiden case."

Maiden Back on Job.

Maiden was found by the committee to have padded expense accounts. He was suspended and reinstated after two weeks.

Ferguson denied published reports that he dismissed Bush and York for making the report.

"I did not fire those men," he

SPLITS MELON

Frigidaire Divides $250,000 Among Its Employes.

DAYTON—(AP)—Employes of the Frigidaire corporation and other Dayton divisions of General Motors shared today in the distribution of more than $250,000 in cash and General Motors stock, in the annual pay-off of the employes' savings and investment fund.

Corporation officials said employes received $243 in cash or stock for every $100 deposited in 1932. Three more annual payments remain to be made from the fund, which was discontinued in 1935, after enactment of the social security and securities laws.

Plant officials said today's disbursement brought to nearly $24,000,000 the total paid to Dayton workers since the plan first was placed in effect in 1919.

New Features Start Today In News-Journal

One is an illustrated strip, "Adventures of Ohio Pioneers," which describes the journey of that brave and courageous group which started from Massachusetts on Dec 3, 1787, for Ohio, and the northwest territory. Another caravan left Massachusetts on Dec. 3, 1937, to duplicate their adventure, traveling by the same methods. This feature will appear daily in The News-Journal, for a short time and thereafter will appear weekly, telling the story of each week of the westward trek. The first strip appears on Page 9 today.

The second feature is "What is your News I. Q.?" It will appear daily, and is a short, interesting illustrated feature, by which you can quickly tell how well you keep abreast of the news of the world.

170 CHILDREN IN BUILDING HIT BY BOMB

Nationalist Planes Strike City Twice; Victims of Raids All Civilians.

BARCELONA — (U.P.) — Weary gangs of civilian men, pressed into duty in a police raid on cafes, toiled throughout the night and into today digging bodies from debris in the old quarter of Barcelona after two nationalist air raids Sunday.

Officially the death list, including only bodies found up to 10 o'clock last night, was 153, including 47 children, with 106 wounded, including 43 women. But morgue officials only an hour later said they had 288 bodies. Unofficial estimates put the probable total of deaths at 500.

Bombard Buildings.

Six nationalist airplanes raided the old quarter, with its narrow crooked streets and ancient buildings, at 9 a. m. Sunday. Casualties then were heavy. From all over the city, following the trail of sirening ambulances, volunteers crowded into the old quarters to aid in removing dead and wounded. Then at 11 a. m. nine more planes swept overhead and bombed the same quarter.

This time rescue workers were caught. Long after the planes had gone red cross workers and stretcher bearers could be seen wandering about the ruined streets, dazed and bleeding. As they recovered their senses, they bandaged each other and went back to work.

In an official communique, the government said the raiding planes came from the direction of the Balearic islands. It was asserted that one of the planes in the second raid was hit by an anti-aircraft shell and fell 12 miles from the coast and that others were believed hit.

Structure Collapses.

In the first raid a four story building sheltering 170 children, refugees from the Bay of Biscay country, was struck. Part of the building collapsed into the cellars. In the second raid the back half of the building was struck and entry into the cellars was made impossible. Police said that only 25 of the 170 children had been brought out alive.

Police said that buildings struck were exclusively non-military ones and that the victims were all civilians.

Town Up In Arms As Warden Locks Up Its Pet Dog

ST. CLAIRSVILLE—(AP)—Legal aid was invoked today to save "Teddy," the town's pet dog, from death in the county dog warden's lethal gas chamber as the penalty for roaming the streets without a license.

"We'll get out an injunction, if necessary," asserted Clifford McWilliams, spokesman for a student protest committee appointed at a mass meeting in the school today.

Judge Bernard W. Witten of the Belmont county common pleas court declared he would hear the delegation, and said he would intercede, if possible, to save the dog from possible death or deportation at the hands of Warden John McGrew.

A collection among students raised $9.45 in "Teddy's" behalf, and fund campaign leaders said the drive would be extended to the community as a whole if added cash were needed.

Widespread feeling has been expressed here since the town mascot was impounded last Friday after wandering through the village unrestricted for years.

13 NEW CASES OF T. B. FOUND

Thirteen new cases of tuberculosis have been found in Richland county, a report of the monthly re-check clinic held last Friday under the direction of Dr. T. L. Bliss of Akron, showed today.

Of the 32 patients examined, 13 showed a positive test while 19 proved negative.

Dr. Roy H. Rehder, health commissioner, said that eight of the cases were in Mansfield, four in the county and one in Shelby. Two of the patients were recommended to the county commissioners to be sent to a sanitorium, he said.

Up and Down THE STREET

If a certain west end matron ever suffers another black eye, she probably will explain it as just another collision with a door. Her explanation of the cause of a discolored orb she is now sporting has not convinced her friends, she says, judging from their giggles. She blames her dog, saying he stuck a paw into her eye while she was playing with him.

C. L. Mitchell, chairman of the board of county commissioners, had two good reasons for that big smile on his face today. He was a grandfather for the first time, and the new grandson—the son of Paul Mitchell, deputy in the county treasurer's office—was born on President Roosevelt's birthday. "We thought we ought to make some recognition of the fact that the husky boy was born on the president's birthday anniversary, so we named him James Frank," the grandfather Mitchell said.

Remember those Cleveland exposition costumes that were worn by members of the chorus in the Christmas basket show Dec. 18? They are going traveling and, of all places, to Ethiopia. Perhaps a chorus of dark-skinned Ethiopian beauties will wear them in an Addis Ababa revue. All of the exposition costumes, including those from the Aquacade and Winterland, have been purchased by a costume exporter. The charity show used two sets, the Russian military coat suits and the Eskimo suits, which are among the 2,000 costumes that go to Ethiopia.

It's hard to break away from the routine of years, so a considerable number of members of the January graduating class at Mansfield High school discovered today. Some 20 of the 88 members of the class returned to school for post-graduate work this morning, and a large number of others, finding time heavy on their hands, just came back to school to "wander around." Recalling the fact that they had been "kings" as 12-A students, faculty members dryly referred to the wanderers today as "lost pups" who didn't seem to know where they were going.

YOUTH FORUM GETS JOB TIPS

Failure to Complete Schooling Major Handicap In Finding Work, Arlin Asserts.

Tips on preparing for a job and finding one were given to more than 70 young people last night at the Community Christian Youth forum at the United Presbyterian church.

"The Handicaps of Youthful Job-Seekers" was the subject of the forum which brought H. W. Arlin, personnel director at Westinghouse and Paul J. Winters, vocational teacher at John Simpson Junior high school, before the group as speakers.

Asserting that while the value of a diploma is largely the prestige it gives a job-seeker, Arlin pointed out that one of the major handicaps in finding work is the failure of many youths to complete school.

"After you have a job, the diploma doesn't mean much to you," he said, "but having it as an applicant is important. A great many men succeed without finishing high school or attending college, but they do it in spite of the lack of education, not because of it."

Winters urged youthful job seekers to use the right approach when seeking work, which, he said, "includes selling yourself to the boss and making him interested in you."

The boys from the Friendly House will be guests at the forum next Sunday night at the First Presbyterian church. The topic will be in charge of Dr. T. J. McDermott, Cleveland and Dr. F. J. Heringhaus of Mansfield.

The time of the forum will be moved up to 6 p. m. beginning Sunday.

LEXINGTON—The Parent Teacher association of Lexington will meet tomorrow evening at the high school to hear an address by Mrs. I. W. Bassinger of Mansfield, P. T. A. district chairman. A musical program has been arranged.

FORMER CRESTLINE MAN LEADS NEWTON BAKER MEMORIAL RITES

When memorial services were held at Severance Hall in Cleveland yesterday for the late Newton D. Baker, two friends of Mr. Baker who delivered the eulogies were Dr. Raymond B. Fosdick, director of the General Education board of Rockefeller Institute of New York City, and Ralph A. Hayes, director of the New York Community Trust, and a former Crestline man.

Hayes was private secretary to Mr. Baker when the latter was Secretary of War under President Wilson, later became a lieutenant in the army and served as a liason officer at Versailles when the treaty was being drafted. For the first six months of 1920 he was assistant secretary of war.

Hayes graduated from Crestline high school in 1911 when he was 17 years old, and by the time he was 22 held one of the most important secretaryships in America under Baker. After the close of the war he was selected to direct the work of removing the bodies of thousands of American war dead in France to American soil.

The services yesterday in Cleveland were broadcast over the nation, Dr. Fosdick said that Newton Baker had the "versatility of genius; he held one of those master keys that unlock the doors to so many kinds of treasure houses.

"If every one of our universities, every four years or so, were able to turn out a Newton D. Baker, we could face the future with less forboding. With that kind of genius for great citizenship, with that type of clarity and vision, the world of today and tomorrow, would not be so dark and troubled."

In eulogizing his former chief, Hayes said: "I doubt if you could know the simple courage that he had—courage to resist the blandishments of expediency; courage to deal justly with those it might be politically important to abuse."

Hayes is a brother of F. P. Hayes, cashier of the First National bank of Crestline and of Miss Nora Hayes of Crestline.

LOSES LICENSE

Truck Driver Admits Driving 'Under Influence.'

Charles Lehman, trucker, 148 Chilton avenue, had his driver's license suspended for a year this morning in municipal court when he pleaded guilty to driving while under the influence of liquor.

Lehman was arrested Saturday evening when the truck he was driving ran into the parked truck of W. M. Buckingham, Columbus, at Wayne and Orange street, and damaged it so that it had to be taken to a garage for repairs.

Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch fined him $50 and costs, suspended his license for a year and gave him a 15-day jail sentence which was suspended on good behavior and condition he pay for damages to the other car.

SENATORS PLAN SKIRMISH OVER 'WAGE' PHASE

Bill's Objectives Receive General Approval; Vote on Lynch Measure Later.

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The senate dropped the four-week filibuster against the anti-lynching bill temporarily today to consider the administration's housing legislation.

Despite general approval of objectives of the housing bill, senators disagreed over its wage provisions.

The bill, as originally passed by the senate, requires payment of "prevailing wages" fixed by the labor department on government-insured construction projects. This section was removed by a committee appointed to reconcile house and senate measures.

FHA Protests.

Senator Lodge (R.-Mass.) author of the prevailing wage amendment, led an attempt to reinstate it. Federal housing officials opposed the provision, declaring it would destroy effectiveness of the housing program, because prevailing wage standards might be so high as to discourage privately-financed construction.

The house has approved the compromise bill, designed to hasten the flow of private capital into home construction. It would cut the down-payment on low-cost houses to ten per cent and would reduce interest and service charges on government-insured projects.

Consideration of the housing bill gave southern senators a rest from their orations against the anti-lynching measure, which nevertheless remained the unfinished business of the senate.

A showdown vote was expected later this week on laying aside the anti-lynching bill to permit debate on other major legislation. Southerners expressed confidence they could sidetrack the measure.

Naval and other appropriations bills are awaiting senate action, as is the administration's government reorganization measure.

Committee agreement was near on the administration farm bill, which probably can be considered by the house before it takes up tax revision proposals.

Rep. Treadway (R.-Mass.) said in a radio speech last night that the tax revision program would encourage monopoly. Rep. Vinson (D.-Ky.), debating the subject with him, declared the changes would remove inequalities in corporate taxation.

STAYS NEUTRAL

Switzerland to Ask Exclusion From League Obligations.

GENEVA — (AP) — Little Switzerland announced today she would demand complete neutrality for herself, involving freedom from all League of Nations membership obligations.

The Swiss delegate, Camille Gorge, indicated, however, that Switzerland would not press the demand before the present session of the council but would wait until May.

Switzerland, Gorge said, could not, above all, be compelled to apply sanctions which might expose her to dangers against which he said there was not sufficient protection in the league.

Meanwhile Maxim Litvinoff, the Soviet delegate, was reported seeking to persuade Great Britain and France to join in asking the United States to participate in a scheme to aid China economically in her war with Japan.

BRAIN SURGEON DIES

The Great Game of Politics

—By FRANK R. KENT

The Net Is Nothing.

IN THE last few weeks hundreds of columns have been written and thousands of words strained through the microphones about the numerous White House conferences which the president has held with "business men." What is regarded as the final one—this time with the "small business men"—is scheduled for Wednesday.

Like those which have preceded it, this conference will make a "good story." Undoubtedly, it will be a front-page feature for one day, but when that day is over it almost certainly will take its place upon the shelf, already crowded with a mass of other grandiose gestures, half-baked ideas and abandoned proposals. In other words, the net of all these conferences is nothing.

THE simple fact is that these conferences, the declared purpose of which was to consider problems of the depression and better the relations between Government and business, have not changed anything at all. There was no real administration plan for dealing with the situation before they began and there is none now. Nothing transpired at any conference of real importance, no decisions of any sort were made. And, not withstanding the optimistic expressions emanating—for publication — from various business spokesmen, after leaving the presence, no basis for co-operation was discovered.

IT IS SILLY to blame this on the business men. It is with them clearly a matter of self-interest to co-operate. They may be as degraded and depraved as the most rabid New Dealer believes, but they hardly are stupid enough not to grasp any extended hand that holds out promises of pulling them out of the present slump, the dangers of which they clearly see. The fact is, no set of citizens was ever more eager to "go along" than they. They would be crazy if they were not. And if the president, clarifying his thought, should move toward sound ground, most business men would break their legs getting behind him.

ON THE contrary, it is fair to say that there is today in Washington and in the country more confusion than before. No one knows what the president is going to do, and fear exists that, regardless of his various conservative pronouncements, his radical advisers will direct his last-minute action and color his forthcoming message on monopoly. Mr. Roosevelt's next move can never be guessed by the one he has just made. Take, for example, his conference with the 50 selected business leaders under the chaperonage of Secretary Roper. Despite the prepared statement given out by the president's secretary, nothing could have been more futile. The recommendations of the business leaders were identical with what had previously been recommended.

BUT, what happened at the next press conference after this conciliatory meetaing? Held two days later, the president, while insisting that prices must come down, declared that wages must stay up. In making this solemn statement, with astounding nonchalance, he completely ignored the two facts which make it absurd.

First, that his tax on undistributed profits, to which he still clings, already has taken in taxes the funds with which corporations might continue to pay wages while operating at a loss.

Second, that even if they had been allowed to keep the surpluses to make such a plan possible through a profitless period, it would mean a loss in taxes to the government which would throw all budget calculations out the window and push us over the brink of bankruptcy.

THE THING does not make sense. Only two views seem possible—either the president deliberately spoke for the purpose of cementing support from the unthinking, to whom he has consistently appealed; or his mental processes are too muddy to grasp either the practical impossibility of what he urges or the disastrous consequences of the attempt. If anything were needed to shake confidence and confuse the people, this declaration would have done it. Even the labor leaders themselves, in private, do not agree with the president.

Hollywood Speaks—

—By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—Time flies (to coin a phrase) and changes the face of things. On a movie star, however, it changes the coiffure more than the face.

And here's a movie fan's memory test. The photographs below are not from archaic files. The oldest one dates from 10 years ago. All of them are of famous ladies of the screen, some more prominent now than then.

1—She's a redhead—and not Clara Bow either—and she danced and sang as well as acted her way to tame in pictures. This is how she looked about 1930, after she'd done a picture called "The Dance of Life."

2—She doesn't wear slinky hats now, and in her pictures she seldom gets a chance to look soulful as she did in this portrait (1929).

3—This is a glamorous portrait of a lady who never cashed in on glamor. Eight years ago, as today, she went for comedy. She is the wife of a film executive, is one of the few movie stars who really mean it when they say, "I love to cook."

4—She wore this doughboy's hat in a little war number called "The Goodbye Kiss" back in 1928. But she became really famous several years later in a sentimental boy-meets-girl drama.

Corsage Should Be Worn Down To Appear Best

By JOAN DURHAM

(AP Service Feature Writer)

Don't wear your corsage with the flower up—if you want it to last

There's a good reason for that, explains David Burpee, horticulturist. If the flower is down, the sap still in the stem can run into the blossom, thus prolonging its life.

But if you're not Scotch enough to worry over the longevity of your corsage, wear it the way it looks best.

Mr. Burpee isn't a stickler for flower arrangement in table centerpieces, either.

Any rule can go by the board if you don't violate the principle of general design, he thinks. That means selecting containers that fit the general arrangement and suit the flowers to be placed in them

Containers should be subordinated to the blooms For that reason the old rule about having flowers approximately one and a half times higher than their containers is a good one But if the container is very bulky and bottom-heavy, the flowers should be even taller.

Glass containers are most suitable for flowers of fine texture. Heavier blossoms go best in pottery or metal. In-betweeners—garden variety roses, for instance—are very attractive in china containers.

Flower Symbolism.

Gardenias—refinement

Orchids—you are a belle Lilies-of-the-valley — perfect purity.

Forget-me-not—true love, constancy.

Pansy — pleasant thoughts, think of me

Zinnias—thoughts of absent friends

Directions for Washing Quilts Given by Experts

Down quilts are worth more than their weight in warmth They are light enough to throw over the bed on chilly summer nights, and warm enough to do heavy service throughout the coldest winter

To wash immerse it in mild soapsuds which have been reduced to a luke warm temperature, and press the suds through the fabric. Do not twist or squeeze

Use a second lather of suds and a third if necessary There's no economy in stinting on the soap supply To restore the soft puffiness of the filling every bit of ingrained soil must be removed Rinse thoroughly in lukewarm water and press out the excess moisture before hanging the quilt to dry

Spread it between two lines if possible to avoid having it drag along the ground To redistribute the filling evenly, turn it several times while drying, and when it is dry work it between the fingers Press lightly with a warm iron.

Wife Can't Forget Her First Love

By VIRGINIA LEE

WORRIED went with a boy from the time she was 14 years old until she was 18. Then his aunt, with whom he lived, thought they were planning to get married, so she told the boy he could no longer live with her if he didn't stop going with Worried.

The boy did not have much money or prospects, so he stopped going with Worried and they drifted apart; he married another girl and finally she married and moved away from the old home town.

But Worried cannot be happy. She thinks all the time of her first lover, and although she doesn't know whether he cares for her or if he is happily married or not, she feels she must see him.

If you tell your former boy friend how you feel you may get a severe shock, my dear Worried. You may find that he no longer cares for you, is entirely happy with his wife and that you are remembered only as "one of the girls he used to go with." How would you feel then?

You would be very unhappy, of course, and probably hurt in your pride as well as your heart. But even more important, your husband would be hurt, and he certainly is not to blame because you married him loving someone else. And the first boy friend's wife certainly doesn't deserve to have her peace disturbed, because she had nothing whatever to do with your unhappiness.

I think the very wisest course for you to pursue is to make up your mind that the first young man and your affair with him belongs to your youth and are over. I am afraid you are imagining yourself a tragic heroine of a very pretty romance, when, as a matter of fact, you are a very fortunate young wife who could be very happy with her mate if she "settled down" and made herself contented. Don't you agree with me, down in your innermost heart?

Life IS what you make it, you know. You can harp on this old love affair, and break up your home. Or you can live in the present and make a happy home nest for hubby and yourself.

HOROSCOPE

For Tuesday, February 1.

While this may be a rather lively day in some relations, according to the predominant planetary aspects, yet in others there may be a difficulty or a slowing down, especially in affairs with elders, servants or employes. Shun bickering over petty matters. Also while. Maintain happy relations with superiors, elders, servants and employes. Be careful with the health, guard against accidents and bolster up property interests.

A child born on this day may have a fairly good mind and may be profound and shrewd rather than brilliant. It may have little characteristics which may mar its relationship with others; these should be controlled in its earliest training and discipline.

If This Is Your Birthday.

Those whose birthday it is may have a year of conflicting experiences. While there may be some liveliness in connection with news of new interests, other matters may offer resistance to progress. Postpone these and center on pushing into fresh fields of effort and be on guard against accidents and have some regard for the health. Concentrate on new adventures and let the old simmer for a while. Protect property.

If you use sheets of two different sizes, one for single and one for double beds, fold sheets for double beds in a large square and those for a single bed in smaller squares. You will then have no difficulty in finding the right sheets.

Give Baby A Toy Balloon

Baby Harry Williams

By LILLIAN CAMPBELL

DOCTOR'S orders are not always unpleasant. They may be distinctly alluring and to one's taste.

For instance the chubby young man whose photograph appears here is following his psychologist's instructions and finding them lots of fun.

Dr. Blake Crider, professor of psychology at Penn college, Cleveland, and recognized authority in child psychology, prescribed a toy balloon for the infant under six months of age.

So young Harry Williams, aged five months, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Williams, of Cleveland Heights, O., is happily carrying out doctor's orders. He finds them much to his taste.

"Infants less than six months lack the motor co-ordination for other toys," according to Dr. Crider, who is a consultant on the proper toys for children of different ages.

"A balloon teaches the child to focus its eyes and provides, in addition, as much entertainment as its parents get from the movies."

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

"WELL!" MISS WHITLOCK prolonged suspense for only the fraction of a second before giving her verdict. "you have no temperature, and your pulse is also normal. So, if you'll be a docile patient and do what you're told until it is time to go, you may go to New York.

"But—" she interrupted Mary's outburst of joy with a cautionary uplifted forefinger, "you must not excite yourself, nor must you add anything to the fatigue which is now yours. You are pretty near the saturation point of exhaustion, and you must rest this forenoon if you expect to go to New York this afternoon."

"You mean the blowing-up point, don't you?" Mary inquired pertly, and Miss Whitlock nodded.

"Call it what ever you want," she said, "so you abide by my rules. If you hadn't a constitution of iron, young woman, you wouldn't be able to lift your head this morning."

"How do—" Mary began and then made a hasty substitution for which I was thankful. She knew that I must have been the source of Miss Whitlock's information, and Miss Whitlock knew that she knew. But as long as their knowledge was not brought out into the open, "the amenities could be preserved.

"I'll be the 'mindingest' patient you ever had," she told Miss Whitlock. "But I'll have to do some packing, you know, Auntie Madge," she said to me. "You remember I brought all my trans from our apartment in New York, and took only my summer and camping things up to Kent."

"You don't need to worry your head over that until this afternoon," I told her. "I have everything packed away in mothproof containers, each article labeled and listed. I'll bring the list to you after breakfast, so you can check the things you wish to take with you. Then I can bring them in for your inspection, so that if there's anything you want to have done with them, we can do it right away."

I looked at Miss Whitlock with sudden apology.

"Of course this is all subject to your dictum," I said. "Will it hurt her to go over the list with me after breakfast?"

"Not as long as she says in bed," she said briskly. "That's my theme song. She must stay in bed all this forenoon. Now, Mrs. Veritzen, what is your breakfast order—anything you wish, unless you have a yen for spareribs and sauerkraut, or something equally hearty."

Mary laughed—I think that was Miss Whitlock's objective—then made a wry face.

"I had one breakfast before daylight this morning," she said. "Do I have to eat another?"

"According to Katie, who is an authority," I interposed, "you didn't eat enuff to keep yun leetle sparrow alife'."

"Auntie Madge, I'm surprised at you," she said, shaking her head at me. "You know Katie hands out that same snicl about anybody who doesn't stuff himself like a Christmas turkey at every meal. But I'll be good. If I order orange juice, coffee and toast will you let me off without anything else?"

Miss Whitlock considered.

"Is that your usual breakfast," she said, "or do you like other things?"

Mary looked shamefacedly at me.

"My little hatchet is waving in front of me," she said. "I cannot tell a lie. Yes, I usually have what Granzie calls a 'hearty breakfast."

"Then," Miss Whitlock said inexorably, "we will add one soft-boiled egg to this menu. Egg cup or broken into a dish?"

"Egg cup, if you please," Mary said meekly, and I started for the door.

"I'll have Katie bring this up right away," I said, and Miss Whitlock shook an admonitory forefinger at me.

"Don't come back here until you've had your own breakfast," she said sternly, and with an acquiescing nod, I started for the kitchen hoping that I would get there before Mother Graham should chance to sense something unusual in the household routine, and come down to the kitchen to quiz Katie concerning it.

Regular Brushing Helps Hair

By GLADYS GLAD

"America's Most Famous Beauty"

SMARTLY arranged hair, it seems to me, has never been so important a part of milady's ensemble as it is today. Many of our latest millinery styles depend for their effectiveness almost entirely on the condition and arrangement of the hair. All the girls from the lorgnetted Mrs. Plentibucks of the Park avenue penthouse to the lowly Mrs. Zilch of the East Side tenement, have started tilting their bonnets at those new chic and rakish angles that leave the tresses so much in evidence.

If the exposed tresses be not smartly styled, even the last word in Paris models will look like nothing. But even more important, the hair must be lustrous and healthy, and there's nothing like a good, old-fashioned brushing to give the hair that necessary gloss and polish. Brushing distributes the natural oil evenly over the hair. And it really helps to bring out the full loveliness of an attractive wave.

Personally, I believe that every woman should give her hair a good, brisk brushing each day. For a brush, when properly used, is one of the greatest of hair beautifiers. It removes all dirt, foreign particles and dried cuticle from the hair. It stimulates the circulation in the scalp, thus bringing nourishment to the hair follicles. And it polishes the hair, making it glossy and lustrous.

It is a good plan when administering your regular brushing treatments to the hair, to keep a dry, lintless towel on hand. And after every few strokes the brush should be wiped upon the towel, in order to cleanse the bristles. This eliminates the possibility that the dirt removed from the hair by the brush will be placed back in the hair again during subsequent brush strokes.

The sort of brush that is used for brushing treatments is really a most important factor, for none but the right sort should ever be employed. The bristles should not be too sharp or stiff, for if they are they may irritate the scalp. And on the other hand the bristles should not be too soft, else they may prove ineffective and fail to benefit the hair.

The best type of hair brush, as a rule, is the kind with long, flexible, blunt-tipped bristles that are deeply serrated for penetration. Procure such a brush, use it properly and give your hair treatments with it each and every day.

THEATER

A RADICAL change has been made in the casting of the Broadway hit, "Boy Meets Girl", which goes into production at Warner's studio soon. It was first announced that Marion Davies would play the leading role. Then came the announcement, without explanation, that Miss Davies would no longer release her pictures through Warners. Simultaneously Jimmy Cagney and Warners, who have been tifting for two years through the courts, kissed and made up, and now comes word that "Boy Meets Girl" will be made with Cagney and Pat O'Brien in the role of the two mad playwrights of Hollywood. The role formerly intended for Miss Davies, has not yet been assigned in the new set-up.

New Discovery.

Sam Goldwyn, discoverer of many famous screen stars, believes that he has rung the bell again with his newest find, Jon Hall, the "tall 'n' handsome" of "The Hurricane", current at the Ohio theater. Hall and Dorothy Lamour play the native sweethearts in this South Sea Island story. Hall got the role of Terangi because of his physique and partly because the fact that he has spent much time in Tahiti appealed to Director John Ford. His mother's people still live on the picturesque island and are prominent in industry there. In 1926 Hall won the swimming championship of Tahiti. The picture presents a thrilling spectacle of a hurricane which destroys an island and kills hundreds of natives.

Barrymore Pleases Himself.

Now that John Barrymore has given up playing romantic leads, he can settle down comfortably to play the sort of things he has always liked best—comedy character roles. He has such a character in "True Confession", the Carole Lombard-Fred MacMurray picture which the Madison is showing. He plays a chizeling drunk; a drunk intoxicated with the joy of living and the conviction that of all the world, he alone is important. Barrymore hops and skips through a succession of amusing moods as the eccentric vagabond who holds the secret of the murder mystery. The action revolves around a girl who would rather lie than eat, married to a modern George Washington.

Villain Goes Romantic.

Basil Rathbone, suave and handsome villain, goes romantic in "Make A Wish", the Bobby Breen picture which the Ritz will show for three days, starting Tuesday. Marion Claire, whose voice is familiar to radio audiences, is the romantic objective of both Rathbone and Ralph Forbes, but this time it is the villain-turned-hero who gets the girl. Comedy has its fling with Henry Armetta, Leon Errol and Donald Meek. A second feature is the picturization of Faith Baldwin's "Portia On Trial" with Walter Abel, Frieda Inescort, Neil Hamilton and Heather Angel.

Korda Hit Revived.

Among the interesting revivals of popular pictures of several seasons ago which have been booked for the Majestic is Alexander Korda's historical film, "The Private Life of Henry VIII," with Charles Laughton as the much married English king. The picture was the beginning of, and set the pace for, intimate biographical films, and still stands as one of the finest and most interesting of this type of film ever made. The picture brought American fame to at least three unknown English players—Merle Oberon, who is seen as the ill-fated Anne Boelyn; Binnie Barnes and Robert Donat. Elsa Lanchester, who is Mrs. Laughton in private life, plays the foxy Anne of Cleves, who outwitted her royal lover with a game of poker. The second feature for the three days, beginning tomorrow, is "The Patient in Room 18."

"The Authority on Authorities"

THE PRINCIPAL JOB

Killing off a side entry in the dummy, if it contains an almost set up suit, should be the paramount consideration of a defender who is trying to beat a no trump game contract. If his "covering an honor with an honor" may set up a side entry in the dummy, he should not follow that moth-eaten rule, but hold on to his honor for the purpose of later blocking an entire suit.

	♠ J 10 ♥ J 9 4 ♦ 10 8 6 ♣ K Q J 7 5
♠ 9 8 5 3 2 ♥ K 7 3 ♦ Q 4 3 2 ♣ 4	N. W. E. S.	♠ Q 6 4 ♥ Q 10 5 2 ♦ K J ♣ A 8 6 2
	♠ A K 7 ♥ A 8 6 ♦ A 9 7 5 ♣ 10 9 3

(Dealer: South. Neither side vulnerable.)

The bidding on this deal was 1-No Trump by South, 2-Clubs by North, 2-No Trumps by South, 3-Clubs by North and 3-No Trumps by South.

When the spade 3 was led, the 10 was played from dummy, East put up the Q and South won with the K. The clubs were now started and when East took the third round with the A, he returned a spade. North was able to win this with the spade J and cash the two remaining clubs. The three spade tricks, four clubs and two aces made his game contract.

East was responsible for having allowed South to make a game. With the cards he held, it should have been evident to him that he could have prevented South from gaining an entry to the clubs when they were set up. On the first trick he should have ducked the spade 10 and allowed South to win it. As East held the Q, that suit would not provide a late entry to the dummy, nor would hearts or diamonds.

What is the correct defense against South's contract of 4-Hearts, the club J being the opening lead?

Answers To Questions About Parties

By EMILY POST

Dear Mrs. Post: At an "open house" where people are coming and going constantly, must place be provided for them to take off their coats?

Answer: One should always have a place where men leave their coats and hats, and somewhere else where women leave their wraps if they want to. At a New Year's day afternoon "at home," for example, where people stay perhaps only a few moments at each house, somewhere to lay the women's wraps is not so important. But there is nothing for a man to do except to carry his hat in his hand and wear his overcoat if no place be provided where he can leave them. Women seem quite all right in their coats, but a man in a coat at a party would certainly be a novelty.

Dear Mrs. Post: Is R. S. V. P. properly included on visiting card invitations to parties of very general nature? I never thought so but just received one asking for an answer and I really don't know how to go about answering it. I don't know the hostess very well or I would be inclined to telephone her.

Answer: R. S. V. P. is put on all invitations to which the host or hostess would like an answer, and which, without any request for a reply, might be considered too impersonal to require an answer. Strictly speaking, such invitations should be answered in the third person on a sheet of note paper, exactly as though a formal invitation had been sent you. For example: "Mrs. John Jones regrets that she is unable to accept Mrs. Smith's kind invitation, etc." or "Mrs. John Jones accepts with pleasure, etc." On the other hand, if you knew the hostess at all well, you could then write on your visiting card "Accepts with pleasure for the 16th," or else, "So sorry unable to accept kind invitation for 16th." You can, also quite properly, telephone either accepting or regretting.

When planning your flower garden, remember that delphiniums should be planted in the open where sun and air reach them. They do not do their best planted nearer than four feet from a wall or high tight fence.

To make celery curls cut inner stalks into three or four inch lengths. With a sharp knife cut each piece down into thin strips, stopping when within an inch of the end. Drop into ice water. Strips will curl up as they become chilled.

Cake With Chocolate Fluff Frosting

Today's Recipes.

CHOCOLATE FLUFF FROSTING—Two cups confectioners' sugar, two eggs, one-half cup milk, one teaspoon vanilla extract, four squares chocolate (melted), two tablespoons butter (softened.) Place all ingredients in a bowl. Then place bowl in a bowl of cracked ice and beat with a rotary egg beater for about seven to ten minutes, or until the icing stands in peaks. Sufficient to frost one loaf cake.

Keep Pie Crust Mixture.

Eight and one-half cups pastry flour after sifting, one and one-half cups lard, three teaspoons salt. Mix with pastry blender, keep covered in refrigerator, and when you want to make a pie mix a portion with water. Two cups of this mixture will make a double crust for nine-inch pie. Time is saved by mixing enough for three or four pies, and if you happen to get too much water in your pie crust, the addition of a bit of the prepared mixture will remedy it.

Max Beats Foord; Braddock Retires

Jimmy Announces Withdrawal After Spending 15 Years In Prize Ring.

NEW YORK—(AP)—Jimmy Braddock, the man who came back from "nowhere" to win the world heavyweight championship and a lot of cash money he needed badly, has reached the place most fight fans thought he was in 1933. He is all through with fighting.

James J. Braddock

Jimmy announced his retirement yesterday. He has been fighting since 1926, he admits to 32 years and he proved he still was a pretty good man with his dukes when he outpointed Tommy arr ten days ago.

Jimmy announced: "I have spent 15 years in the game, and in fairness to everyone, but especially my wife and children, I believe it is time for me to withdraw."

There had been talk of his retirement ever since he lost the title to Joe Louis last summer and took a terrific beating before he was knocked out.

After handing out thanks to his "manager and friend" Joe Gould, the fans, newspaper men and boxing officials, Braddock went on to explain that he would continue his association with Gould in a new business venture.

"My retirement does not mean the end of my professional association with Joe Gould," his announcement said. "I will be as helpful to him as I can in the management of other boxers and he and I will engage in another business enterprise, the plans for which will be announced shortly.

Schmeling Finds South Africa Slugger Easy In Bout at Hamburg.

HAMBURG—(AP)—Max Schmeling, eager to become the first ex-heavyweight champion to regain the world title, congratulated himself on his 12-round victory over Ben Foord of South Africa, former British Empire champion.

It wasn't that Foord had proved such a tough opponent. In fact some fans were a bit disappointed that Max hadn't knocked him out or at least knocked him down. But according to Schmeling the fight just suited his plans.

Max Schmeling

Max is aiming at his title bout with Champion Joe Louis next summer and other things don't count so much. Not even his share of yesterday's estimated $150,000 gate.

Max was off to his usual slow start but after the sixth round was in complete command, hammering Ben around with his deadly right and doing everything but floor him. It was something of a disappointment to the 25,000 fans.

During the early rounds yesterday Max seemed to concentrate on his timing and footwork, punching mostly with his left. Then he began tossing his right and had Ben in trouble.

Schmeling cracked a knuckle on his thumb when he landed on Foord's head in the fourth and it was swollen and painful after the bout. His trainer, Max Machon, said, however, that the injury was not serious.

DOUBTS WHETHER HE WILL GET BREAKS

NASHVILLE, Tenn.—(AP)—James Riley Turner, the "greybeard rookie" of the Boston Bees, got more of a kick out of winning 20 games as a freshman than out of his top ranking in earned-run averages.

"Earned-run records are considered a true gauge of pitching abilities," says Turner, a dairyman here during the off season, "but still I am more gratified by winning 20 games in my first year."

Getting his first big-league trial after 14 years in the minors, Turner turned in his fine performance using, he says, "a pretty good fast ball, bettter-than-average curve and control."

He'll Work Hard.

The 31-year-old hurler thinks he may be able to escape the second-year jinx that gets so many sophomores by reporting in condition and ready for hard work at the training camp.

"I may have a poor season like many other second-year men," Turner says, "but I believe I stand a better chance of getting by it than lots of young fellows without my experience.

"I have always felt that second-year men failed to duplicate their rookie records because they reported out of shape and maybe a little overconfident.

"I'm down to playing weight right now and my legs are in good shape. The 1937 season is history so far as I am concerned and I'm going to training camp ready for as much conditioning as the rawest rookie.

"I don't expect to win 20 games again, however, because you can be a fine pitcher any year and still fail to hit the mark. Injuries, bad breaks, poor support and any one of a number of things may contribute to a poor year."

Red Sox Try In '24.

The tall Tennessean made his first try in fast company at the tender age of 17, in 1924, when he trained with the Boston Red Sox, but that was the nearest he got to the majors until the Bees grabbed him from Indianapolis early last year.

Turner firmly believes he was a hurler of major-league caliber as far back as 1930.

"About that time I learned to use my head as well as my arm and I think I could have made good in the majors any time after that.

"I got my share of victories every year, but the scouts overlooked me because I wasn't spectacular."

The veteran right-hander ranked seventh among the National league pitchers on a won-lost basis, with his 20 to 11, but led in effectiveness. He yielded an average of only 2.38 earned runs per 9-inning game—as compared with Cliff Melton's 2.61, Dizzy Dean's 2.70 and the 3.19 mark of Carl Hubbell, who had the best winning percentage of .733.

Mansfield Faces Busy Week, Meets Ashland, Akron West

Tygers Quicken Pace In Drills For Games Wednesday and Friday.

WELL-RESTED from their last appearance on the courts, the Mansfield high school basketball bouncers return to action Wednesday night for the first of two games on this week's schedule.

The Tygers, who have been idle since Tuesday when they snapped their three-game losing streak at Willard, perform on the Ashland court Wednesday, and entertain the home fans Friday in a clash with Akron West.

Enough For One Week.

These two assignments should offer the Coach Russ Murphy's black-shirted dribblers with all the opposition they will care to encounter in one week.

While Ashland has not compiled any startling records this winter, the A's gave a brilliant exhibition in defeat on the Mansfield planks earlier this season.

Ashland will be considerable tougher on its own court, and the Men of Murphy are expected to find it difficult to make it two straight over the neighboring city rival.

Mansfield will be offered one of its toughest tests of the current campaign in the Akron West tussle. The Akron team is one of the outstanding cage combines in the state this winter, and promises to be a factor in determining the northeastern Ohio district laurels.

The Cowboy's only defeat was administered by Canton McKinley, and Coach Murphy, who witnessed the game between these two fine clubs, believes West has th strongest club.

West not only presents an experienced lineup, but it has height to spare.

Murphy Pushes Tygers.

Murphy quickened the pace in the drills today with a strenuous workout, and plans to push the Tygers all week to get them in the best condition possible for the two conflicts.

Believing that they have snapped out of the lethargy which marked their play during the past couple of weeks, Murphy expects the Tygers to offer West an interesting tussle.

Mat Show Postponed Until Wednesday.

The weekly Quality club wrestling presentation will be held at the Armory Wednesday instead of tonight, Promoter Tim Nolan announced today. Unable to secure the wrestlers he sought to head the show tonight, Nolan called the postponement until Wednesday.

The show will be topped by a match between Dan O'Connor of Boston, and Ed (Strangler) White of Alabama, one of the ruffians of the sport.

Wednesday will be "Ladies Night", Nolan said, and women accompanied by an escort will be admitted free.

Ontario Not Likely To Lose Advantage

One game in front of the Richland county league race, Ontario high school hoopsters are not likely to lose their advantage this week.

The Warriors, who passed their last severe test of the schedule last week when they disposed of Butler, are hosts to Bellville Saturday night in their only appearance of the week.

While they have shown some improvement, the Bellville players are not likely to threaten the position of the Warriors.

Friday night's county tilts take Lucas to Bellville, Madison to Butler, and Union to Lexington.

N. C. O. conference action will be continued on three fronts Friday, Shelby plays the conference leaders at Bucyrus, Mt. Vernon performs at Galion, and Ashland goes to Marion.

* * *

In the Twin-Valley league, the undefeated Shiloh club will attempt to strengthen its position at New Haven Friday, while Greenwich plays at North Fairfield and Adario invades Plymouth.

* * *

Simpson, still undefeated in the Bi-County league, plays at Shelby Friday. Hedges also of Mansfield, entertains Hayesville at the Y. M. C. A.

Rolls Record Total to Beat Mrs. Meder

Mrs. Sophia Meder of Mansfield, early all-events leader in the Ohio Women's bowling tournament which came to a close in Akron Sunday, was forced to give ground to a new record.

After the first half of the tournament, it appeared that Mrs. Meder's 1691 all-events total was safe, but tiny Peggy Friedel of Cleveland set a new all-time record of 1847 Sunday to force the Mansfield woman to take second place.

Two other records were established in the final week-end of the tournament. The Cincinnati Goodyear Shoe repairs won the five-woman total with a record 2727, and Alma Hinchman of Toledo set a new singles mark of 680.

TWO MOOSE TEAMS WIN

No. 2 Club Takes Six Out of Nine Games, While No. 1 Sweeps Three Tilts.

The Mansfield Moose No. 2 team won six out of nine Moose Traveling league games bowled over the week-end.

On Saturday, the Mansfield lodge club, paced by Hilborn's 625, rolled a 2845 to win two games at Collinwood, and then traveled to Cuyahoga Falls, where it took three tilts with a 2781.

300 Elementary School Blade Experts Participate in Carnival Won by Western.

ICE skating rinks are not numerous in the city, but judging from the performances of the 300 competitors in the elementary school carnival staged at North Lake park Saturday, the juvenile skaters are not lacking from practice.

The ice was in the best condition of the season as the youthful experts displayed their wares in the competition directed by Harry Mehock, assistant athletic director of Mansfield high school.

Western school boys and girls dominated the carnival as they won first honors with 56 points. Brinkerhoff was the runner-up far behind the winner with only 10 points.

Newman scored nine points. Hedges, 8; Carpenter, 4; and Bowman, 3. Woodland, Prospect, West Fifth street and Bushnell, other entrants, failed to score.

Hangs Up Seven Firsts.

To annex the grade school championship, Western, located in the vicinity of the lake, registered seven firsts in the 10 events, six second places and three "show" points.

Virginia Webber, David Weaver and Jimmy Yoyik were outstanding for Western. They were the only blade artists to score double wins.

Virginia, who with Yoyik, led the individual scoring with 13 points, won two of the three events staged for the girls, and finished second in the other. She won the 100 and 220-yard races, and was runner-up to Beverly Wentz of Brinkerhoff in the 50-yard dash.

Yoyik annexed the victories in the 50 and 220-yard dashes to bolster Western's total and Weaver triumphed in the 440-yard dash and 50-yard backward race.

The other Western victory was won by the 440-yard relay team, which consisted of Fry, Dent, Hale and Lamoreux.

Lead Brinkerhoff.

Beverly Wentz and Dick Haley, 100-yard race winner, won two firsts for Brinkerhoff. Jackie Spicer of Hedges won the other event first in the fancy skating event.

The Vocational club of the high school presented ribbons for the first three places in each event. Music was furnished by Smart's accordian band. The summary follows:

BOYS' EVENTS

Tyger Merman Invade Toledo

Drop Fourth Straight Meet to Fremont Ross.

The Mansfield high school natators looked forward to another tough assignment as they started preparations today for a dual meet with Toledo DiVilbiss in the Toledo pool Saturday.

The Tyger swimmers suffered their fourth defeat in as many meets Saturday when they bowed to Fremont Ross, 46 to 29, in the Mansfield tank.

The only Mansfield victories were registered by Al Allen, 100-yard back stroke; Jim McCartney, 100-yard free style, and the 220-yard free style relay team.

Al Baerren, who has seldom been defeated in the 50-yard free style, finished second to Cooper of Fremont Saturday, and he was also forced to take a second in the 220-yard free style, another of his specialties.

Medley relay—Won by Fremont (Glickle, Hayes, Puckerman and Beckins).

220-yard free style relay—Won by Mansfield (McGinty, Walker, Betts and McCartney).

ASHLAND PLAY B-W

NOT ALL'S WELL IN GIANT FOLD

NEW YORK—(AP)—There's a sneaking suspicion around the Polo Grounds these days that the Giants aren't that "one big, happy family" any longer.

For years and years it's been the proud boast of the National league champions that they were different. Each spring when other magnates had their hands full handling the squawks, there were no holdouts, no howls or harsh words there between the boss and his hired hands.

But things seem to be happening this spring. Definitely, some of the boys have the bit in their teeth.

When rowdy Richard Bartell added his "holler" to those of Outfielder Hank Leiber and Catcher Harry Danning regarding 1938 salary offers, it marked the first time in years the Giants had been bothered with such trivial matters.

A year ago, even though they were champions then, the signed contracts poured in so fast on President Horace Stoneham and Secretary Eddie Brannick that there was talk of hiring a special filing clerk. The only dissenting voice came from a second-string catcher, and it was nothing more than a murmur from that party.

RANDOM SHOTS

By OSCAR RUBL, News-Journal Sports Editor.

WEEK-END SHORTS: Bill Terry, author of "Terrible Terry," returned to New York Saturday, met the writers, whom he blasted in his SEP story, and actually was pleasant to them. You can't help but blame the scribblers for being skeptical. . . . Football will miss Harry Kipke, ousted Michigan coach, who announced his retirement from the coaching business to become a salesman for a Detroit concern.

Now that Van Mungo has inked a Brooklyn contract, the Cubs have given up hope of obtaining the crack right hander . . . That was a swell story in one of the Sunday sheets about Fred Hunter Boston Red Sox scout, who discovered about half of the players who wore Mansfield livery last summer.

* * *

DON BUDGE didn't show any signs of a slump as he defeated Jack Broomwich to win the Australian lawn tennis title Saturday. . . . Harry Smith, president of the Ohio State league, and Chappie Geygan, Marion manager, who caused Smith more trouble than any two other pilots in the league last summer, are co-instructors in a Y. M. C. A. baseball school in Columbus this winter.

Bob O'Farrell, who is expected to come to Mansfield to bowl in the national Moose tournament, has been named manager of the Bloomington (Three-I) club. He's the former big league receiver . . .

* * *

NICK FRASCELLA tallied 31 points as Wooster college defeated Ashland, 71 to 28, to climb into the Ohio conference lead with five straight victories. . . . Chuck Chuckovits tallied only 12, but Toledo U. whipped John Carroll, 43 to 32. . . . The Cleveland Barons played their 13th straight game without defeat on the Arena ice Saturday when they beat Syracuse, 2 to 0.

Massillon's undefeated high school cagers continue to win. They registered their eighth straight Saturday when they walloped Akron St. Vincents. . . . Look at this score: Port Clinton 95, Elmore 21. . . . Mt. Vernon took it on the chin from Newark, 22 to 25.

Another Sonja

Another Sonja Henie? Babs Savage, 5, already shows promise as a figure skater. She is shown in New York where she appeared with Miss Henie herself in skating show.

Cleveland Team Leads State Bowling Tournament.

CANTON—(AP)—Max's sports five-man team from Cleveland stood at the top of the Ohio Men's bowling tournament here today after the second week-end of action. Their high score of 3,144 included a series of 1,092, 1,067 and 985.

The singles leader was Bill Schmitz of Akron, who made 715. The doubles team of H. Abbott and C. Stenbarger of Dayton finished strong to trial 1,327 for top position in that event. The all-events lead was held by Emil Mislansky of Cleveland, who had had 2,068.

BERNAT TIPS 696 PINS AS LIEDERKRANZ SPLITS

The Mansfield Liederkranz club split a double-header with Findlay Northern Ohio Traveling league teams in Findlay Sunday.

Led by Jack Bernat, who cracked out a 696, the Liederkranz club spilled 2943 pins to 2651 for the Ohio Banks to win three games. Bernat accounted for games of 244, 213 and 239.

The Liederkranz club ran smack into a total in the other half of the twin-bill with Jerry's Insurance keglers, whose string consisted of 1041, 1063 and 1100. The Mansfield team rolled a 2796, and was led by Bill Donnellan's 607.

Walter Wellman rolled a most unusual string of games to lead the Agents. He scored a 256 in each game for a 768 as he led Jerry's team to tilts of 1041, 1063 and 1100.

Terry Roars at Jokes Pulled at His Expense

By GEORGE KIRKSEY

Bill Terry good-humoredly watches, along with 1,000 others, while the writers give their interpretation of the Edgar Bergen-Charlie McCarthy skit.

Bergen, played by Tom Meany of the New York World-Telegram, says: "Charlie, are you going to enroll in Bill Terry's baseball school?"

Terry, played by Arthur Daley of the New York Times, happens along and says: "Why I wouldn't let him in my school. I have no use for ball players who sit on newspapermen's laps. Besides you couldn't bunt your way to first base with your wooden head."

McCarthy, with Arthur Mann, ghost writer of Terry's magazine article, "Terrible Terry," contributing the vocals, says: "Oh, I see Terry's still trying to win ball games with a rousing sacrifice."

Terry says: "All right, if you want to get in my school I'll ask you a few questions. Suppose the Giants and Yankees were playing in the seventh game of the world series and you were pitching, what would you do?"

McCarthy says: "Just a minute Terry, I'll answer that if you can tell me how the Giants could ever get into the seventh game of the world series with the Yankees."

Terry says: "Well, suppose the bases were filled and Joe DiMaggio was at bat, what would you do?"

McCarthy says: "Well, Bill, there's always suicide . . . but you could ask DiMaggio for his autograph, that would kill a little time. Then you could ask Stoneham for his autograph on another five year contract. And then, Bill, if I were you, I'd catch the next train for Memphis."

SCIENCE SEEKS TO REVITALIZE JADED PLANTS

South American Expedition Plans To Bring Back New, Hardy Stocks.

BERKELEY, Cal.—(U.P.)—The rejuvenation of some of the most important crop plants in the United States by "re-marrying" them into the handy stock of their original forebears from the Andes will be the ultimate objective of the Goodspeed scientific expedition which the University of California this year will send to South America.

Such important American crops as corn, potatoes and tobacco are expected to receive a new lease of life, a greater disease resistance, and better strength and quality as a result of what is being planned for this unusual botanical expedition.

For, in addition to the usual exploratory activities, there will be organized in connection with the expedition an airplane transport service to the United States that will permit it to pour into the leading botanical and experimental stations vast quantities of the flora, seeds, cuttings and even whole living plants that will be taken from the steep slopes of the Andes.

Mass Production Planned.

These two aspects of the expedition will be so co-ordinated as to make it a sort of mass production expedition to release in the United States on a vast scale some of the most beautiful and important plant life of South America.

In addition to the utilitarian ends of the exposition in endeavoring to find means for improving American crops, ornamental trees, shrubs, flowers and plants will also be sought for transplanting.

A few of the Andean wonders which Dr. Goodspeed expects to bring back to the United States for wholesale acclimatization and transplanting are peanut-sized potatoes of tan; corn with kernals as large as a nickel; strawberries from Robinson Crusoe's island which are more resistant than the present North American varieties; orchids that grow in gardens instead of in tree crotches; flowers in tree form that grow to a height of 50 feet; the rare sky-blue lily, known as the "glory of the sun," and many others.

After these plants have been acclimated and cultivated in various American botanical gardens, and especially those of California, and sufficient propagation attained, they will be available for distribution throughout the United States.

According to Dr. T. H. Goodspeed, a number of American crop and garden plants have suffered a certain deterioration and an increasing susceptibility to frost and disease, as a result of too much domestication.

"We intend," Dr. Goodspeed said, "to modify this by bringing back large numbers of the wild plants of the Andes which have not yet suffered too much from improvement and by inter-marrying scientifically the long-separated Andean and domestic specimens, breed a superior plant life here."

SYSTEM HELPS

Colorado Warden Says Honor Policy Cuts Escapes.

CANON CITY, Col.—(U.P.)—Warden Roy Best of the Colorado state penitentiary has found the honor system he established four years ago for the 1,345 felons in the state prison highly successful.

The system aided by lop-sided haircuts or bread-and-water diets for those who refused to co-operate was credited by Best with being responsible for a record of only four escapes in 40 months. Before the system was started, there were 66 to 125 escapes every year.

Prison walls were responsible only in a small way for the record. About 300 prisoners are never inside the walls, but live on the prison farm and another 150 are taken outside each day to work.

GUARDED FROM BIRDS

LONDON — (U.P.) — Men armed with sticks, rattles and clappers are patrolling the 600-acre zoo at Whipsnade scaring away flocks of starlings, crows or any birds which show an inclination to rest in the grounds. This is one of the precautions being taken to prevent the zoo's animals from being attacked by hoof-and-mouth disease.

MALAYA'S TRADE WITH U. S. VAST

SINGAPORE — (U.P.) — The immense volume of United States purchases in British Malaya was discussed by Monnett B. Davis, U. S. consul-general in Singapore, in a speech to business men here.

Despite the comparative smallness of the country, British Malaya in 1936 came fourth in exports to the United States with a volume of $147,500,000. Imports from the United States were only $4,500,00.

"In these times when so much is heard of the desire for self-sufficiency," Davis said, "and in international trade there are so many 'unwilling customers' who buy abroad only because they must, I am very pleased indeed to say there is nothing of the 'unwilling customer' in the attitude of the United States government with respect to this country or international trade in general. On the contrary, the basic policy of that government is diametrically opposed to the view that national economic self-sufficiency is either feasible or desirable."

The reason for Malaya's huge trade balance is that nearly half of the world's rubber comes from here and more than half of tin supplies.

STAMP SOCIETY HOLDS BANQUET

Columbus Collector To Be Speaker At Annual Session Tuesday.

Members of the Mansfield Philatelic society will hold their annual banquet at the Southern hotel at 6:30 p. m. tomorrow, Secretary Henry Fiedler announced today.

The main speaker will be Ray A. Menedian, Columbus, who will display his collection of Newfoundland stamps. Other speakers will include Ray Shephard, Columbus, secretary of Linplint, a stamp collector's publication, and Lincoln Russelll, owner of the Lincoln Russell stamp shop.

Harry F. Shover is chairman of the banquet committee, and A. J. McDermid is president of the society.

175 IN COUNTY SUBMIT CLAIMS

Industrial Accident Cases Drop Off During December.

A total of 175 accident claims were filed with the Ohio Industrial commission in December by Richland county workers, the commission's report showed today, a substantial drop under the previous month. One employe died in the county during the month as a result of injuries and two others suffered permanent partial disability.

Forty-three workers reported over seven days lost time. 15 had seven days or less and 114 were medical only cases, the report indicated. Accidents during the month cost the county's workers 8,553 days of time loss.

The marked reduction in industrial employment in December was reflected in the claims. The total in the state was 16,237 as against 19,282 in November.

MARKET LOAFS AFTER GAINING HIGHER LEVEL

Gains Running to Point or So Are Scattered Near Second Hour.

NEW YORK — (AP) — Selected stocks loafed at moderately higher levels in today's market, but many issues lacked recovery stamina.

Gains running to a point or so were well scattered near the second hour. After a fairly active opening volume dwindled.

Consolidated Edison pushed up following announcement the regular dividend had been voted. There had been some talk it might be cut.

The news, on the whole, was no worse than last week, but some speculative elements, brokers said, nibbled at the rallying side on the theory last week's wash-out entitled the market to a fair upturn.

Most commodities did better. Bonds did little either way.

Traders, hunting for straws in the market wind, noted the survey of the magazine "Steel" which said steel buying in January was 10 to 15 per cent better than in December.

The publication commented that "this was not a marked improvement, since the December level was low, but, coupled with the slow but steady advance in production, it indicated consumers were in need of material."

While current purchasing was thought to be principally for immediate needs, the review believed it was a sign supplies are being rapidly depleted in many quarters.

TRIPLE MURDER TRIAL STARTS

Dingledine, Son and Chapman In Court as State Opens Police Slaying Case.

SPRINGFIELD, O. — Three men went on trial for their lives today in Clark county common pleas court—the first such murder trial in the country's history.

The defendants are Harry B Dingledine and his son, Henry, of Springfield, and Harry Chapman, of Chicago, who were arrested after Patrolman Martin Randolph and Deputy Sheriff Edward Furry were killed in a gun battle at Crystal Lake following a holdup last Sept. 3.

A special venire of 71 names was summoned today as selection of a jury began.

The Dingledines and Chapman are charged jointly with the murder of Randolph. Henry Dingledine had been condemned to die in the electric chair and his father was convicted with the jury recommending mercy when they were tried earlier in connection with Furry's slaying. Chapman has not been tried previously.

Defense counsel had sought separate trials on the ground that they could not be given a fair trial if tried jointly, but Judge Golden C. Davis overruled the motion.

"January, 1938," and who were greatly concerned as February approached.

Flags were hoisted on all public buildings to start the celebrations planned ever since Juliana announced on the radio June 15 that "welcome reasons of health" would curtail her activities. A national holiday was declared.

Princess Juliana, 28 years old, is the only child of Wilhelmina and Prince Henry, Duke of Mecklenburg-Schwerin, who died in 1934.

"Tobacco Growing's My Job"
MY LAST CROP OF LEAF TOBACCO WAS THE BEST I'VE EVER GROWN. AND CAMELS GAVE ME A TOP PRICE PER POUND FOR MY BEST GRADE LEAF. AS THE FELLOW WHO GETS THE CHECK, I KNOW CAMELS USE MORE EXPENSIVE TOBACCOS. YOU BET I SMOKE CAMELS. THAT GOES FOR MOST PLANTERS, TOO

MR. HAROLD L. CRAIG, a successful tobacco planter for twenty years.
TOBACCO quality is an open book to the men who know tobacco because they grow it. Do they favor any particular cigarette? "Yes," says Harold L. Craig. "Camels are the planters' favorite cigarette." That speaks volumes for Camel's quality. Camels are a matchless blend of finer, MORE EXPENSIVE TOBACCOS—Turkish and Domestic.

700 DANCE AS MANSFIELD AIDS PARALYSIS FUND

It was a successful party that Richland county gave Saturday night at the Mansfield-Leland hotel in observance of President Roosevelt's 56th birthday and to raise funds for the infantile paralysis foundation.

A crowd estimated at from 600 to 700 persons, including a large representation of county and city officials, danced and played cards at the party, the fourth annual event of its kind held in the county.

Despite the attendance, which taxed the capacity of the hotel ballroom, proceeds for the paralysis foundation probably will approach $400, the 1937 mark, John Correll, chairman of the county President's birthday ball committee, said today.

Expenses Increase.

He added that total receipts from the party probably would be about the same as last year but increased expenses are expected to cut into the proceeds.

Under the new foundation set up this year, all funds from the ball will go to national headquarters and will be distributed to local communities as needed to treat paralysis cases or to provide clinics.

In the past, 30 per cent of the receipts went to the Warm Springs foundation and the remainder was used in the community where the party was held.

The Westinghouse swing band, a Mansfield unit under the direction of Robert O. Richards, and a floor show directed by Miss Marguerite Speas, were praised by the crowd for the entertainment they provided.

In the show were tap and novelty dance numbers by Geraldine Brightbill, Martha Metcalf, Gladys Huffman, Jean Shill, Marjorie Crowl and Glenn Schroff, pupils of the Speas Studio of Dance.

Heading the committees in charge of the party were Correll, general committee; Atty. Marshall C. Moore, arrangements; Postmaster Herman Homberger, patrons committee; Miss Mary Newcomer, in charge of the card room, and Mrs. Louise Reese, ticket sales.

GARDEN GROUP INSTALLS STAFF

SHELBY—Installation of officers will feature the opening meeting of the Shelby Garden club for the new year at the President's luncheon at 1 p. m. Tuesday at the Weaver Inn, according to Zorayda Sheets, past president.

New officers are: Annabelle Shaniberger, president; Mrs. Robert Shreffler, vice president; Mrs. Rachel Morris, secretary and Mrs. Charles Heitzman, treasurer. Programs for the new year will be announced at this meeting, Miss Sheets, stated.

GANG VICTIM

NEW YORK—(AP)—Six shots and the thud of a body tossed from a speeding car signalled the gangland "ride" execution early today of Thomas Kilcullen, 36, a Sing Sing prison parolee, on the outskirts of "Hell's Kitchen," in the west side.

Workers in the vicinity saw a car speed east and found Kilcullen's body with his hands in his overcoat pockets and short-range bullet wounds in his head and jaw.

DEDICATE UNIT AT NEW LONDON

NEW LONDON—Bishop Lester Smith of the Cincinnati area of the Methodist Episcopal church was the speaker here Sunday morning at dedicatory ceremonies of the new $12,000 educational unit of the First M. E. church.

In other ceremonies marking the opening of the unit, a youth and fellowship program will be held in the church Tuesday night and Thursday the Ladies Aid will serve a turkey dinner.

DEDICATE NEW RURAL SCHOOL

Educational Leaders Speak at Ceremonies Friday In Huron County.

WILLARD—The new Richmond township centralized school building was dedicated with ceremonies held there Friday night. Nicholas Moll, past president of the board of education, presided.

An address was given by M. A. Stuckey of Ashland College and a short talk by E. A. Bell, county superintendent of schools. Music for the program was by the Willard school band, and songs by each grade at the new school. Paul Spaulding played piano solo and a male quartette from Celeryville sange a group of songs, one of which they had written was "Our School of Yesterday". Members of the quartet are John Cok, Nick Moll, Engle Cok and Rev. G. Van Laar.

Cloyce Dellinger, president of the board of education, gave a short talk expressing appreciation to those who had sent flowers for the occasion and gifts for the new school.

Dellinger introduced former teachers of schools of the township who were present.

A Farmer's Diary

January 30.

THE beating of rain against the window wakened me. The wind was from the south. With each approaching shower, I could see the western woods whiten and grow indistinct. Great sheets of rain moved across the fields, driven by heavy wind. The snow of yesterday was almost gone, except deep drifts in low places and along fence rows, which made a checkered landscape of brown and white.

When the rain ceased, and patches of blue were seen in the sky, and edges of clouds were silvered by promise of sunshine, I felt the urge to leave the house.

I walked over the field to the farther side. A mellow, vital fragrance emanated from the soil. I saw, in the mud, where life had moved in abundance — the "x" of the owl's claws; the dainty prints of the quail and the chickadee.

The snow had almost completely melted from the thick lush grass on the bank. I pushed my foot along a tiny burrow; the grass came away as though it had been cut by a scythe. I followed the tunnel at least ten feet, pulling loose grass as I went. The tiny passage branched into a network of tunnels; some beneath ice and snow, some along the furrow made by last year's plowing, some under roots of trees and shrubs. There before me was a city whose streets were laid by the field mice. The snow and ice above protected them from winter blasts, and the feathered terrors of the sky. The tender grass roots were at hand for a tasy meal, and the tops for a dry, fragrant bed.

I retraced my steps, happy to remember that scene of peace and comfort.

WASHINGTON —(AP)— President Roosevelt signed today a bill to increase the authorized number of medical officers in the army by 100 to 1,200 and the number of dental officers by 50 to about 260.

LOOK OUT, HOLD-UP MEN, FOR FINANCE COMPANY'S 'ALL SET'

Hold-up men got away with $150 from the Franklin Finance company, 54 West Third street last December, but anyone who thinks the feat can be duplicated might just as well be warned that it can't.

That hold-up is still unsolved, but the chances are that any future attempt would result in the would-be bandits being quickly trapped before they got as far as the front door.

Because the company has installed the latest thing in burglary protection, including bullet proof steel around the cages, doors that can be locked by remote control, and various other protective devices.

Three and a half tons of bullet-proof steel and glass were used, according to L. B. Hamilton, secretary and manager of the firm.

From all outward appearances, the office is the same as it has been for years but behind the cashier cages and the two doors that lead to the rear room there is a thick lining of bullet-proof steel. The one change is the iron wickets at the cashiers cage have been replaced with panes of glass 1⅝ inches thick.

At each cashier's cage is a new type automatic cash control box. The customer lays his pass book or money in the wicket and it is then turned around to the cashier, closing the entrance to the customer. When it is reversed the opening is closed to the cashier.

The space between the office windows and the ceiling has been protected by a heavy steel grating that would forestall any attempt to leap over the top of the cages. The doors are all electrically controlled and can be locked or unlocked with the touch of a button, conveniently located.

Besides all this, there are gun ports in the cashier's cages that can only be opened from the inside. There are also gas masks for employes, should bandits attempt to enter by tear gas. Hold-up men can also be trapped in the place by locking the front door by remote control. Other convenient buttons can be used to summon police.

GRANGE MEETS

Cole Installed as Head of Crawford Farm Group.

BUCYRUS—Willis Cole was installed as master of Pomona Grange at the first meeting of Pomona Grange of 1938 at Lykens schools Saturday. Afternoon and morning sessions were held, with a short business session in the morning followed by a dinner. Installation of officers took place during the afternoon session.

Other officers installed were overseer, T. G. Wagner, lecturer, Mrs. James Krauter; steward, Roy Dinkle; chaplain, Mrs. B. K. Hoover; treasurer, Frank Baird; secretary, H. G. McMichael; assistant steward, Reid Williams; gatekeeper, Willis Wentz; Pomona, Mrs. Ray Spore; Ceres, Miss Mildred Fike; Flora, Miss Gladys Morrow and lady assistant steward, Miss Dorothy Cole.

HURT IN CRASH

GALION—Ivan Miller of Cardington was treated at the Good Samaritan hospital here early Sunday morning for lacerations of the face and head. He was dismissed shortly after treatment.

Miller was driving off of First avenue on to Harding Way East when his car crashed into a tree. He was cut by the broken glass of his windshield.

ACCEPTS CALL

BUCYRUS—Rev. E. F. C. Stahl, former pastor at St. Paul's Lutheran church, who has been living in Bucyrus since his retirement from the local pastorate several months ago, has received a call from Holy Trinity Lutheran church at Newark. Rev. Stahl filled the pulpit there Sunday and expects to leave soon for Newark.

SMASH COUNTERFEIT RING

CLEVELAND —(AP)— Federal secret service agents charged three Youngstown men with passing and possessing counterfeit money today and announced that six Clevelanders, including a woman, had been arrested in connection with the circulation of counterfeit money here.

REBEKAH LODGE AT CRESTLINE HOLD INSTALLATION SERVICES

CRESTLINE—Installation of officers was held at the regular meeting of Florence Rebekah lodge in the I. O. O. F. hall.

Mrs. L. M. Niswander, outgoing noble grand, was in charge of the meeting.

Deputy President Mrs. Margaret Krebs was the installing officer and she was assisted by Mrs. Ora Grim, Mrs. Margaret Geibach, Mrs. Mary Perman, and Mrs. Anna Armstrong.

Officers installed were Mrs. Edward Krichbaum, noble grand; Mrs. H. T. Gall, recording secretary; Mrs. Charles Love, financial secretary; Mrs. Glen Pry, treasurer; Mrs. Bertha Duffner, chaplain; Mrs. Ora Grim, warden; Earl Folk, outside guard, and Miss Lena Zimmerman, musician.

Three officers who were unable to be present will be installed at the next meeting.

A committee composed of Mrs. Gellbach and Mrs. Philip Stentz served lunch and door prizes were awarded to Mrs. Armstrong and Mrs. Duffner.

At the next meeting, the second Thursday in February, degree work will be given.

WHAT CATHARTICS DO TO YOU!
Harsh pills and purgatives often over-stimulate your intestines . . . and leave them weak and listless.
If your constipation is of the common type that is due to insufficient bulk, there's a better way to treat it. Kellogg's All-Bran supplies the bulk you need. It absorbs moisture and softens like a sponge. This water-softened mass aids elimination. But All-Bran does still more. It contains vitamin B1 . . . the vitamin that helps tone the intestinal tract.
Eat Kellogg's All-Bran every day and drink plenty of water. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

EXPECTANT MOTHERS

EXPECTANT mothers who are weak, nervous, can't sleep or eat, and feel worn-out, will find an excellent tonic in Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It aids in calming the nerves, and it stimulates the appetite and increases the flow of gastric juice, so aiding digestion, and thus helps to strengthen one. Mrs. Minnie A. Schultz, 319 J St., La Porte, Ind., says: "During expectancy Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription was very helpful to me—my appetite was better and I felt stronger. I have also taken it for nervousness, sleeplessness, and a weak, worn-out feeling, and I always got the help I was seeking." Ask your druggist today for it in liquid or tablets.

RULES COURTS CAN'T ENJOIN NLRB HEARINGS

High Tribunal Turns Down Shipbuilding Firm's Plea to Halt Proceedings.

WASHINGTON—(U.P.)—The supreme court, in a far-reaching decision, ruled today that federal courts do not have authority to enjoin proceedings of the national labor relations board.

The ruling came as the court's conclusion in suits brought by the Newport News (Va.) Shipbuilding and Dry Dock company, and the Bethlehem Shipbuilding company, seeking to halt labor board proceedings on complaints of alleged unfair labor practices at their plants.

No Final Order.

The court based its ruling on grounds that there was no final order from which an appeal properly could be taken until after the board had issued orders against a company, and that no damage could be shown until that stage of the proceedings is reached. Then, the court pointed out, no enforcement can follow until the board appeals to the circuit court for a compliance decree, which would be refused by the court if the company proved unlawful damage.

The decision, unanimus except that alling Justice Benjamin N. Cardozo did not participate, was delivered by Justice Louis D. Brandeis.

"We are of the opinion," Brandeis' decision said, "that the district court was without power to enjoin the board from holding hearings.

SCOUTS GO TO POLLS TUESDAY IN OWN PRIMARY

Troops Nominate Candidates For City Offices as Part of National Scout Week.

Mansfield's first primaries of the year will be held Tuesday night when Mansfield Boy Scouts go to the polls to nominate their candidates for 13 city offices, which scouts will occupy for one day during National Boy Scout week, Feb 6 to Feb. 12.

During the past week scout candidates conducted spirited campaigns, Floyd Dent, area scout executive, said.

The name of 33 scouts will appear on the ballots at the primaries, and from this list will be chosen the candidates who will run for the different offices, at an election set for Feb. 8.

Names of scouts on the ballots will appear under two different political parties, the Liberals and Conservatives. Those chosen at the election, will take over the various city offices for one day as a part of National Scout week observance.

Two Tickets.

Conservative candidates will be John Gano and James Gadfield, for mayor; Jake Sternbaum, chief of police; Glenn Laser and Robert William Hollingshead, city engineer; Joseph Horvath, councilman-at-large, and Robert Broaker, ward councilman.

Before any scout was eligible to run for a office he had to have his petition signed by scouts of his own troop, and by scouts of other troops in the city.

The campaigns conducted by the scouts have taken the candidates into the meeting room of every troop in the city, as well as into some of the city's schools. Some of the candidates obtained permission from H. J. Dotson, principal at John Simpson Junior high school, to deliver campaign speeches over the school's public address system.

Voting in the primaries as well as the election, will be held in the meeting rooms of each troop in the city, during troop meetings. Members of the scout board of elections are J. R. Turner, Tom Metcalf, Jack Augustine, Carl Stough and Earl Massa.

U. S. Cutter Batters Gale, Ice to Rescue Two

After two unsuccessful attempts, the U. S. coast guard cutter Diligence, stationed at Two Harbors, Mich., battled blizzard and ice to rescue two men marooned on Cat island in Lake Superior, 90 miles from Two Harbors. The two men, Harri Aiken, 51, left, half-breed Indian, and Conrad Shovick, 37, are fishermen of Bayfield, Minn. The vessel is a solid sheet of ice.

15 MORE LOTS GO ON BLOCK

Sheriff Sells All But One of Parcels In City, Shelby to Satisfy Tax Liens.

Sold at sheriff's auction Saturday at the courthouse, 13 lots in Mansfield and suburban communities brought $1,080, or $105 less than the appraised value, while tax liens against the properties amounted to $5,409. In all, 15 lots in the county were sold at the auction.

Twelve of the lots, located in Roseland, Lincoln heights and Coolridge heights, were purchased by Paul Eliot, secretary-treasurer of the Farmers Savings and Trust company, for $705. They had been appraised at $885, and were sold to satisfy a tax judgment for $5,155, obtained by the county against the Farmers Savings and Trust company as trustee.

Atty. Marshall C. Moore, special assistant prosecutor in charge of the county's delinquent tax campaign, explained that most of the tax bill against the properties was made up of special assessments which far exceeded the actual value of the properties.

Sold on a writ of partition awarded the Farmers Savings and trust company in an action against Rena L. Goss and others, a lot on Raleigh avenue, Mansfield, was bid in by Joseph Bauer, Mansfield, for $385. It was appraised at $300. The county held a $254 delinquent tax lien against the property.

Edward Krichbaum, Shelby, paid $135 for two Shelby lots which were sold on a foreclosure order obtained by County Treasurer John E. Kolb against Patrick Cunningham of Shelby. The county sought $36 in back taxes. The lots were not appraised.

2 SENTENCED

On his plea of guilty to a statutory charge involving an 18-year-old Mansfield girl, Sam Wilson, 18, of Macon, Ga., was sentenced to one to 20 years in the Mansfield reformatory Saturday by Common Pleas Judge C. H. Huston.

Represented by Atty. Harold Burns, Wilson had previously entered a plea of innocence to an indictment returned by the county grand jury and his trial had been set for today.

Judge Huston also revoked the probation of Charles J. Jeffery, 52, of Howard, O., and sentenced him to one to seven years in the Ohio penitentiary.

Arrested in Worthington township last week by Deputy Sheriff J. R. Hetler, Jeffery was cited for failure to provide for his minor children and to make reports to the county probation officer.

CHAPTER XVI

Caradad considered swiftly before framing an answer to Mrs. Greenway's unexpected question. After all, Terry had told her very little about Gerta, except the tragedy that had come into her life. That was what was back of the query, no doubt. A little rush of sympathy drove out all feelings of antagonism.

"Yes," she answered simply. "I was sorry."

"Then you understand," Gerta's white forefinger traced an aimless little pattern on the cloth. "It's rather dreadful, my dear, to see what trouble can do to a strong man—at times."

"But surely....."

"No, no! Of course not!" Gerta twisted her lips into a smile. "Nothing like that, Dad. Do you really mind if I call you that? It's so quaint and—after all, we seem like old friends."

"Of course I don't mind."

"And I'm Gerta. I know I'm talking in a silly fashion. But you can understand now. Men are all so alike. So like children. I suppose worrying over them is part of a woman's job — even though it is uncalled for. I probably wouldn't give Terry's mood a second thought, if I hadn't been through what I have. But I can't help it — or help wishing that I were in a position to assist the poor boy. Yet, I dare say, he wouldn't let me. He's very proud. I suspect he always has been that way, has he?"

Caradad nodded. Her face was troubled, in spite of herself. Terry had been more than proud in his younger days. He had been reckless to the point of foolhardiness. What if he were in serious difficulties now? Troubles due to money were conducive to unpleasant conjectures, especially when they concerned one of Terry's temperament. She remembered what he had said to her, that evening they had talked on the mezzanine...he never would "play piker." Caradad could understand. Unknown to her mother, she had watched many a bunk-house poker game. That was before she had learned to "fill in" occasionally at her father's insistence. Old John held that a knowledge of draw poker was an asset to any one, even a girl. And taught her some of the fine points. As long as he could bluff, Terry the debonaire would be in the game. But if...

Caradad corraled her wandering thoughts.

"Yes, he always was proud," she admitted. "I would hate to think he wasn't getting along well," she added dutifully. "He seems so very popular—he has so many friends."

* * *

Her words brought Nick Tankersley to mind. Tankersley would probably be glad to assist Terry, if he were in temporary need. But Terry had assured her that he never had taken advantage of Nick's generosity and she had been relieved to hear him say so. She fancied that Mrs. Greenway would not be so particular, since she had so frankly expressed a desire to help Terry—then spoke of his being so proud. Caradad had the feeling that something prompted Gerta to say it, that some suggestion was hoped for. She also acknowledged a growing distaste for the discussion. It had set a vague little fear clutching at her own heart.

"I'm sorry..." she was beginning, when the soft call of a buzzer was heard and the maid passed through the small dining room on her way to the door.

"There!" Gerta raised her brows in mock despair. "That would happen. Some one coming in to spoil our little visit. Yes?" she turned to the maid. "Who is it?"

"Mr. Cantine calling, ma'am."

Gerta pushed away her chair and rose hastily to her feet, calling out laughingly: "Come in, Terry! You're just in time for coffee—and we have a guest!"

When he appeared in the doorway, Mrs. Greenway was there, too. Holding out both hands in welcome.

"Why, hello there, Dad! This is a surprise for sure enough!" He reached her chair in almost a single stride, hand extended. "Well, well!"

"Draw up a chair, Terry," Gerta directed solicitously. "Hot coffee, Tina. And another cup. You look tired to death, poor boy. I was starting to scold when the bell rang. Dad and I were having such a cozy visit...Wasn't it sweet of her to come and cheer me up? That cold of mine has been so persistent...I've been perfectly wretched."

* * *

Terry's brows went up quizzically at Gerta's use of "Dad." He glanced swiftly at Caradad and received a little smile. He turned to Gerta, with an abstracted, "Cold, you say? Too bad—warm weather colds are the worst." As he spoke, he dropped into a chair he had drawn to the table. "You're looking fit, Dad. The big town hasn't got you down yet?"

"No, indeed," she smiled. "I'm beginning to feel very much at home here now. I like it."

"Won't you have something to eat, Terry?" Gerta broke in. "Or something to drink first."

"Thanks, no. Just coffee."

As Caradad studied Terry's face, her breath came a little faster. Gerta was right. There was something wrong with Terry. His ready smile could not hide that haggard look in his gray eyes, or the shadows under them. Weariness was written in every line of his face.

"You look tired, Terry," she said abruptly.

"Wouldn't wonder," he admitted. "The traffic was heavy coming down and driving is a job I hate—for long stretches. I mean, I was tired before I started."

"I know," Gerta sympathized. "And it's so tantalizing to be no farther from home than Milwaukee, then having to stay on, day after day."

"But you didn't drive to Minneapolis, too, did you?" Caradad experimented.

The shot told. Gerta recovered her poise instantly, but too late to prevent Caradad from realizing that Terry's travels beyond Milwaukee came as unexpected news. Caradad was the one he had taken into his confidence, then. And it was the same as announcing that he had not written to Gerta while away. If Terry had been less preoccupied, he would have realized that he was making matters still worse by observing unwittingly:

"I couldn't seem to get to a stopping place, all the time I was gone. One thing led to another, you know. Expected to be home several days ago." He looked at Caradad. "I gave you a buzz at the hotel to apologize, but you were out. I made sure you hadn't checked out...didn't trust you."

"I told you I'd stay until you came home," Caradad reminded him laughingly. "And here I was, lying in wait for you the first place you go."

"Do have more coffee, Terry. Those cups are too small for a man. Tina should have brought out your favorite."

"Thanks, Gerta, I believe I won't. It might keep me awake and I've got a heavy date tonight—to sleep."

"In that case," Gerta observed lightly, "let's adjourn to the other room and you can have the sleepy-hollow and a footstool to start training." She held out her hand for Terry to take. "Come on," she commanded laughingly. "I'll assist your tottering footsteps."

* * *

Ensconced in his easy chair, pipe in mouth, Terry displayed little inclination to join in the conversation. Caradad had a feeling he was tired and that her presence was prolonging a situation from which he could not well escape. Worse still, she felt like a deliberate intruder. If she were not present, Terry would be telling Gerta about his trip; whether it had been a success or a failure. Gerta said he always confided in her. And, tonight, he appeared to be definitely in need of encouragement.

"I really think I should be starting home," she said after a time. "Could I call a taxi from here?"

"Why, of course," Gerta assured her. "Only don't feel that that you must be going. It's quite too early."

"Not for me," Caradad laughed. "You know I'm from the country...used to going to bed with the chickens."

"Terry will phone for one, if you insist. But I wish you wouldn't."

* * *

Still protesting, Gerta led the way to her bedroom door, to stop when it was reached with a sudden exclamation.

"Pardon me a second, Dad. I was using the telephone directory this afternoon and I'm almost sure I didn't put it back on the hall stand. Terry won't be able to find the number..."

But he was thumbing the leaves of the bulky volume when Gerta glided to his side and laid a hand on his arm. She spoke in a soft whisper. "You'll almost have to take her to the hotel, dear. But I'll be waiting. Hurry back."

He frowned slightly. "Wish you'd excuse me tonight, Gerta. I'm fiendishly tired."

"Please, Terry." She hurried away before he had time to voice further excuses.

"But you don't have to go with me, Terry!" Caradad urged uncomfortably, when she saw him waiting hat in hand. "I'll stay in the hallway until I see the cab, and it won't take me more than ten minutes to get back to the hotel." She held out her hand to Gerta. "I had a lovely time—thank you so much."

"Sure I'm going with you," Terry told her. "Think we don't have any manners here?"

Gerta put an arm about Caradad and kissed her lightly on the cheek. "Thank you, dear. And you must come back very soon. I'll call you. And I won't tell you good night," she smiled to Terry. "Goodbye."

* * *

At the cab door, Caradad protested again at Terry's accompanying her, but he made no response, save to give a curt direction to the driver. After that, he leaned back in his corner until the hotel was reached.

"Why don't you keep the cab?" she suggested. "You can watch me go in."

"I was afraid you were."

"Some. But you're restful. Shall we sit down a few minutes here, or try the mezzanine?"

"I'd rather go up there," Caradad decided.

A few moments later found them in possession of the settee where they were the evening Nick Tankersley found them. Terry stretched his feet out in front of him with a sigh, hunted for his pouch and pipe. After he had the tobacco burning, he remarked abruptly:

"You know, Dad, you're one of the few persons I've ever known that never get on my nerves. I've an idea you wouldn't nag a fellow—much."

"You're wrong," was the serious answer. "I can nag — and I'm going to. Terry, you're very badly worried and I know it. You won't tell me, so I'll tell you. You're in some sort of—I guess you'd call it a jam."

"Money?"

"Some..."

"I thought so. Well, us Oklahoma folks have got to stand together. I'm going to help. And you...you're not going to let me down."

INCOME TAX IN NUTSHELL

NO. 7

Duplicate Returns.

Every person (except non-resident alien individuals, non-resident alien fiduciaries, non-resident foreign corporations) required to file an income return for a taxable year (calendar year 1937 or a fiscal year ending the last day of any month in 1937 other thn December) or for any taxable period in 1937, must file with the return a copy thereof on the duplicate form (green paper), which will be procided for that purpose, or a photostatic or photographic copy of the original return of no larger dimensions than the original return. Such copy must be a complete duplicate of the return except that the affidavits on the duplicate form need not be filled in. The copy on the duplicate form must also include any schedules and statements attached to the original return except (1) schedule C-1 (information to be furnished by corporations as to compensation of officers and employes in excess of $15,000, (2) in the case of a fiduciary return the copy of the will or trust instrument, (3) in the case of a return made by an agent the power of attorney on Form 935 or Form 936, and (4) in the case of an insurance company the copy of the annual statement made to the state insurance department.

Any person who fails to file such copy at the time required shall be assessed $5 in the case of an individual or $10 in the case of a fiduciary, partnership, or corporation return, and the collector with whom the return is filed shall prepare such copy.

In accordance with the statute above mentioned, within a reasonable time after the returns are filed, the copies thereof will be made available for inspection in the office of the collector of internal revenue in which the returns are filed, by any official, body, or commission lawfully charged with the administration of any state tax law, if the inspection is for the purpose of such administration or for the purpose of obtaining information to be furnished to local taxing authorities. The law provides that the inspection shall be permitted only upon written request of the governor of such state, designating the representative of such official, body, or commission to make the inspection on behalf of such official, body, or commission. The statute does not authorize inspection of the duplicate returns by the public.

Inspection of returns is governed by subdivision (a) of section 55, which provides, in effect, that income returns made under the Revenue Act of 1936 shall be open to public inspection only to the extent expressly provided by law or as unauthorized in regulations approved by the President, and this provision is similar to the provisions of preceding revenue acts. Under existing law and the regulations approved by the president, income returns are not open to inspection by the general public.

THANKLESS TASK

Women Scrub Ornaments, Now They're to Be Re-bronzed.

CLEVELAND — (U.P.)—Twenty-five cleaning women, working on a WPA project, scoured knobs and ornamental fittings at the county courthouse until they glistened like brass. Now, a second WPA project has been announced, to restore the coating of bronze plate the industrious women rubbed off.

For Chest Colds

Distressing cold in chest or throat, never safe to neglect, generally eases up when soothing, warming Musterole is applied.

Better than a mustard plaster, Musterole gets action because it's NOT just a salve. It's a "counter-irritant"—stimulating, penetrating, and helpful in drawing out local congestion and pain.

Used by millions for 30 years. Recommended by many doctors and nurses. All druggists'. In three strengths: Regular Strength, Children's (mild), and Extra Strong. Approved by Good Housekeeping.

To Win You Must Have Energy

Weakness and mental dullness can be caused by constipation. Just as it also can produce headaches, sleeplessness, loss of appetite, mental depression.

You can see how vital is proper elimination. So, if more than one day goes by without it, assist Nature. Use Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. This laxative is mild, gentle, and thoroughly effective. It also stimulates the liver's secretion of bile without the discomfort of drastic or irritating drugs.

Millions take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets for this rare combination of gentleness and effectiveness. Use them in safeguarding your own welfare. 15¢, 30¢ and 60¢ at all druggists.

A Three Days' Cough Is Your Danger Signal

No matter how many medicines you have tried for your cough, chest cold, or bronchial irritation, you can get relief now with Creomulsion. Serious trouble may be brewing and you cannot afford to take a chance with any remedy less potent than Creomulsion, which goes right to the seat of the trouble and aids nature to soothe and heal the inflamed mucous membranes and to loosen and expel the germ-laden phlegm.

Even if other remedies have failed, don't be discouraged, try Creomulsion. Your druggist is authorized to refund your money if you are not thoroughly satisfied with the benefits obtained from the very first bottle. Creomulsion is one word—not two, and it has no hyphen in it. Ask for it plainly, see that the name on the bottle is Creomulsion, and you'll get the genuine product and the relief you want. (Adv.)

While You Go Out and Play

and I'll do it for about 50c a week with a new, automatic Electric Range!

The greatest joy and advantage of Electric cookery is the automatic control of the cooking time and temperature. The modern housewife merely prepares her food . . . places it in the oven . . . adjusts the controls which are so simple a child can operate them . . . and the rest of the day is left for leisure, social contacts and recreation. It's like having an expert cook in your kitchen at no cost . . . only more dependable than a human could be. We will be glad to show you our records that prove that the average family of four can took electrically for approximately 50 cents a week.

- FAST
- ECONOMICAL
- CLEAN

One of the Many Beautiful Models

The new, modern, automatic Westinghouse electric range, equipped with the famous Corox Economizer heating units, cuts cooking costs from 18% to 46%. There's no soot to scour, to soil walls and ceilings. Equally important, a modern Westinghouse range is fast—the new oven units will bring the temperature to 350 degrees in seven or eight minutes.

Menu Given For Buffet Suppers

By IRENE OBERLIN
Home Service Department of the Ohio Public Service Company.

If you are planning to entertain your club or friends the following menus for buffet supper or luncheon may be of interest to you

Buffet Luncheon.

Assorted Relishes
Chicken a la King on Melva Toast
Pineapple and Cucumber Salads
Refrigerator Rolls
Sherbet Small Cakes
Coffee Mints

Chicken a la King.

4 tbsp butter
2 tbsp flour
1 pepper (cut fine)
1 cup mushrooms (can)
1 cup chicken broth
1 pimento
2 cups diced chicken
2 eggs
1 cup sour cream
2 tbsp sherry
Salt and pepper

Melt the butter, add mushrooms and green pepper and brown lightly Remove and blend the flour thoroughly, then add the broth and cook until thick. Add the chicken Beat the eggs, add the sour cream and pimento and beat one or two minutes Add sherry and serve both on toast

Salad.

2 tbsp gelatin
¼ cup cold water
1 cup hot water
¾ cup sugar
½ tsp salt
⅓ cup vinegar
2 tbsp. lemon juice
1 cup diced cucumber
1 cup shredded pineapple
½ cup mayonaise
¼ cup whipped cream
Paprika

Soak gelatin in cold water five minutes, then dissolve in boiling water. Add sugar, salt, vinegar and lemon juice Let cool When mixture begins to thicken stir in cucumber and pineapple and pour into molds Chill thoroughly and serve on endive or lettuce.

Refrigerator Rolls.

2 cups boiling water
½ cup sugar
1 tbsp salt
⅓ cup lard or fat
2 yeast cakes
¼ cup luke warm water
1 tsp. sugar
2 eggs
8 cups flour

Mix the first four ingredients and cool to luke warm Dissolve the yeast cakes in warm water and sugar Combine the mixtures and add eggs and 4 cups of flour. Beat thoroughly and add four more cups of flour Do not knead Cover and put in refrigerator. When ready to use cut off the amount needed and mold into shape desired. Let rise until it doubles in bulk and bake at 400 degress, twenty to twenty-five minutes.

Raspberry Sherbet.

1 pkg. of raspberry gelatine
1 cup sugar
2 cups water
Juice of one lemon
Juice of ½ orange
1 qt. red raspberries or 1 can of berries

Cook sugar and water together five minutes. Cool slightly and add the raspberry jello Dissolve thoroughly. Cool until it begins to thicken. Add juices and berries. Pour into freezing tray and when firm remove to a bowl and beat two minutes. Return to tray and freeze.

Bread Hint

Bake and serve spoon of corn bread in well buttered, individual baking dishes, custard cups or casserole. This keeps the bread hotter, requires less baking time and makes it easier to serve.

Clean Nails

Separate Flavors

Always store leftover vegetables in separate dishes in the refrigerator. Even though they are to be combined later, the flavors will be better.

Finesse In Hearts

For Heart-y Valentine Day Prepare Batch of Cookies

By MRS. ALEXANDER GEORGE
AP Feature Service Writer.

EXPRESS your valentine sentiments with heart-shaped cookies. Serve them at your Valentine bridge Or do them up in fluffy packages to send to your daughter away at school or the gentle little lady down the street

One basic recipe will do for a whole batch, but you will need all the cutters you have You might even make patterns of your own to add to the variety.

The cookies will be a lot better if you roll the dough thin and then chill it an hour or so —outdoors or in the refrigerator —before you start cutting As fast as you cut out dough shapes transfer them to a greased baking sheet with a spatula Be sure to watch the baking closely so that the edges of the cookies don't get too brown And turn the baking sheets occasionally so that the cookies will brown evenly

Suggestions On Shapes.

Here are some suggestions for cutting

Valentine Cooky Recipe.

2 cups granulated sugar
2 eggs
⅓ cup cream
1 teaspoon vanilla
¼ teaspoon salt
4 cups flour
3 teaspoons baking powder

Cream butter and sugar until very soft. Add eggs, cream vanilla and salt Beat together for one minute Add the rest of the ingredients Chill Roll out dough until it is very thin and cut out the cookies Bake for about eight minutes on a greased baking sheet in a moderate oven

Basic Recipe Variations.

CHOCOLATE—Add two squares of melted chocolate

BUTTERSCOTCH — Substitute dark brown sugar for granulated sugar sour cream for the sweet cream, and one teaspoon of soda for the baking powder.

SPICE—Add two teaspoons of cinnamon and one teaspoon each of cloves and nutmeg to butter scotch cookies

RAISIN NUT—Add one cup of raising and a half a cup of nuts to the butterscotch recipe.

SOUR CREAM—Use sour cream instead of sweet and one teaspoon of soda instead of baking powder.

FRUIT-SOUR CREAM—Add half a cup of chopped dates and half a cup of chopped candied pineapple to the sour cream recipe.

GOLD COOKIE — Use four egg yolks in place of whole eggs, orange juice instead of cream and one teaspoon of soda instead of baking powder.

DELICATE SUGAR COOKIES — Substitute orange juice for cream and add one teaspoon of lemon extract, one teaspoon of almond and one teaspoon of rose in place of the vanilla

If you want to ice your cookies you may make a regular boiled frosting, chocolate fudge, penoche candy or a plain or spiced confectioner's icing.

Kitchen Hints

To prevent steaks and chops from sticking to the broiler pan heat the pan sizzling hot before placing the meat in it

Heavy brown stains may be removed from aluminum and enameled cooking utensils by using steel wool and a mild cleansing powder

Store eggs in a cool dry, clean place Wipe off any stains carefully and gently with a damp cloth Do not wash eggs in water unless they are to be used at once —it will remove the delicate outside film which serves to preserve them.

To remove the smudges from utensils used over an open flame rub with crumpled newspapers, then apply a few drops of kerosene to the paper and rub the kettle until it's clean Wipe with more dry papers Do not let any of the kerosene get inside of the kettle If the smudge is not too thick, it can be removed with a metal wire pot scraper

White wine is served with fish and light meats while red wine accompanies dark meat and game Both are served at room temperature A sparkling wine is chilled Never add ice to the wine, as it will dilute it, impairing the flavor

Try This Banana Chiffon Pie

Banana — Chiffon — Pie! Those "three little words" tell the whole sweet story of how the delightful banana and the tender cream combine to live, like the eater, "happily ever after". Metal make banana chiffon pie right today! It will look as good as this picture, and taste twice better.

Banana Chiffon Pie.

1½ teaspoons granulated gelatin
2 tablespoons cold water
½ cup mashed banana (2-3 bananas)
½ teaspoon grated lemon rind
⅛ teaspoon grated orange rind
5 tablespoons sugar
2 egg yolks, beaten
2 egg whites
1 8" pie shell

Soften gelatin in cold water. Mix banana and lemon juice Add lemon and orange rind, 3 tablespoons of sugar, egg yolks and salt. Cook over low heat, stirring constantly, until thickened. Remove from heat, add gelatin and stir until dissolved. Cool until slightly thickened. Beat egg whites until stiff enought to form peaks. Then add remaining 2 tablespoons of sugar gradually while continuing to beat. Fold in bananas, mixture. Fill pie shell Keep in cool place to stiffen Top with whipped cream if desired. Makes one eight-inch pie

Mushroom Filling

Season browned mushrooms with minced onions and celery for a delicious filling for small pastry cases made of biscuit dough. Surround the cases with a white sauce to which hard cooked egg slices and minced pimentos have been added

Stained Aluminum

Boil stained or discolored aluminum utensils for about four minutes in one quart of water and two tablespoonsful of cream of tartar If the recipe is still do not clean readily boil them a little longer Then wash them well in hot water and soap suds.

If you have an ice refrigerator be sure to keep the drain clean. It should be scalded once a week with a solution of two quarts of water and two tablespoons of sal soda.

Try baking eggs on biscuits or English muffins The latter should be baked before their centers are removed and the uncooked eggs inserted The biscuits or muffins should then be placed on a flat pan in a moderate oven until the eggs have set (About ten minutes) A small quantity of grated cheese may be sprinkled over them.

One college president has an idea there are too many educated young men—but for a long time it has been suspected that there are more white collars than there are jobs to fit them.

Greater Service to Readers.

WITHIN the memory of many present readers of this newspaper it was out of the ordinary for a paper except in the largest cities to have any telegraphic news service.

The News was among the first newspapers in a city of Mansfield's size to install a direct wire service into its editorial department.

Later, as Mansfield grew, and as circulation and advertising patronage increased, it became possible to add a second wire service and to provide greater variety of special features for readers.

Now, as an expression of confidence in Mansfield's future, and in order to be of even greater service to readers, The News-Journal has added the third of the nation's great news-gathering agencies, the International News Service, which, with the leased wire coverage of the Associated Press and the United Press—already being received—provides news-gathering facilities equalling those of newspapers in the largest cities.

Approaching the fifty-third anniversary of the founding of this newspaper, it is gratifying to feel that the confidence in Mansfield that was evidenced by its founder has been fully justified and that The News-Journal is privileged to proceed along the forward-looking lines which have marked its progress through more than a half century.

Dark Cars on Dark Streets.

CAUSE of a traffic crash on Marion avenue last Saturday night, in which two cars were considerably damaged, is attributed largely to the fact that an automobile without a tail-light was parked along the curb and that in a quick swerve to avoid hitting it a motorist was unable to keep clear of another car approaching from the opposite direction.

For a few weeks, a number of months ago, an effort was made by police to enforce the law requiring a tail-light to be turned on when cars are parked along residence streets after dark, but it appears that nothing much has been done about it recently, and, in consequence, violations are frequent.

Such occurences as that of Saturday night evidence the danger of permitting obstacles to stand in the street without a light to warn of their presence.

Learn About the 'D. O. S. P.' Club.

OUT in Sioux City, Ia., a group of girls have organized the "D. O. S. P." club—and you might as well stop guessing right now for there's no likelihood that even a dozen guesses would carry you to the right answer.

It was in a letter to the Minneapolis Journal that one of the members revealed the secret—D. O. S. P. means "Daughters of Spanking Parents".

Doris Blake, the club secretary, writes: "We have 17 members now, and we all get spanked by our parents when we disobey them and do things we should not do. . . . We think it is much better to get a good old-fashioned spanking than to get scolded and nagged at by our parents. A girl is never too old to be spanked. No girl respects parents that don't make her mind, even though some won't admit it. Girls of any age, who believe in spanking, may join our club."

Honest opinion has differed greatly in recent years as to the efficacy or advisability of spanking as a deterrent of juvenile misconduct. While the modern trend of thought is apparently toward withholding of restraint from youthful "self-expression" there are still some adherents of the old school influenced by the adage, "Spare the rod and spoil the child", which, in its original Biblical version, reads: "He that spareth his rod hateth his son: but he that loveth him chasteneth him betimes."

It might be worth while for students of juvenile delinquency to watch the Sioux City D. O. S. P. club idea. It would also be interesting to learn whether a boys' auxiliary is being organized.

Well-Behaved Town.

THE first 24 days of 1938 were quiet ones in Kendallville, Ind., if claims made in the name of that city of 6,000 inhabitants were true. In that time no one was arrested and no cases were tried in city court. The fire department was not called out. There were no violent deaths. Most remarkable of all, in an election year, no citizen offered himself as a candidate for any public office.

Is Kendallville's record unique? Or are there other small cities in the country in which inhabitants can go for quite a while without breaking the law or quarrelling with their neighbors or setting their homes on fire? Probably there are. And there are more people in any town who do not rob banks or shoot their neighbors than there are people who do.

Roads Thirty Years Ago.

MOTORISTS who have driven in the South in recent years find it hard to believe that an automobile trip from northern Florida to Miami was regarded only thirty years ago as an "arduous" run. Yet in 1908 a party of five pathfinders who set out from Ohio to get acquainted with Florida were regarded as rather courageous.

Their equipment consisted of a camping outfit, ropes, block and tackle, shovels, a crowbar, skids, a roll of canvas and a few other odds and ends. Motorists in those days had to prepare for the worst in roads and for the unexpected in car behavior.

With Mae West ruled off the air, Charley McCarthy has probably decided that he shouldn't be knotty.

Looking To The Future of James Roosevelt

—By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON—President Roosevelt's son and secretary and liaison official between the White House and its sub-executives, young James Roosevelt, is a bright and likable junior.

Some folk do say, however, that apparently he is being groomed rather too obviously for a great political future—in short, for a White House tenancy of his own some time in the future. Not, of course, for a presidential candidacy as soon as 1940, but four or eight or maybe a dozen years later than that.

He already is referred to in Washington as the "crown prince" and this reference is not intended to be friendly to him.

* * *

NEEDED BY F. D. R.

Young James' appointment to his secretarial post "took" pretty well. As was to have been expected, anti-Rooseveltians growled a bit about "nepotism", but their complaints received little general attention, either on Capitol Hill, or, seemingly, out in the provinces—to judge from newspaper comment or from the mail our national legislators received on the subject.

For one thing, it was recognized that the president's heads of departments and independent and emergency bureaus, commissions and administrations made about 20 times as many demands on his time as he had time to go around among them. He simply had to have some sort of an intermediary, through whom to filter this business. And young James soon proved himself to be thoroughly competent at it.

Nevertheless, in the nature of the situation, it was a position whose incumbent needed to keep himself, or to be KEPT, as much as possible, in the background.

* * *

ONE WONDERS—

It is all right enough for Executive Secretaries Marvin H. McIntyre and Stephen Early to be moderately conspicuous.

No one suspects that the president can have the slightest interest in seeing either one of them ever as his successor—or that either "Mac" or "Steve" has any such aspirations.

But one may wonder whether "F. D." does not think of young James as a 1944 or 1948 or 1952 presidential possibility — or if young James may not think of himself similarly. And if there are indications of a desire to increase young James' prominence and of young James' willingness to inflate himself correspondingly—why! one's wonderings can't but be multiplied.

Then, all at once, he was shoved into the limelight in a radio debate. He urged the passage of the "government reorganization bill".

This bill's purpose is greatly to increase the executive authority (that is to say, presidential power) at the expense of the legislative (congress') authority.

AS STEWART SEES IT

The reorganization bill still is pending.

We all know that President Roosevelt favors it. It would be understandable for him to desire it, as wanting more power, and, doubtless, thinking that he ought to have it.

But his son?—boosting for it also?

Keeping Step

—By LESLIE EICHEL

One Young Man's Tragic Story.

In a day, the young man "took in" $11.25. Before he could get home with it, he was captured—of course. And his gun was found to be unloaded, an old one that would not fire anyway.

And why did he rob? At home there were two small children and a wife. The last food had gone. There were no jobs. Even a brother-in-law had come to live with the family. There was no bed for him—he had to sleep on two chairs.

And when there is no milk for the children, when the red tape of going on relief prevents speedy help, then—

There's crime like this. And for crime like this the man, the victim of society, can be sent to prison for 10 years—and his family deprived of all livelihood.

Fortunately, the citizens of this city became aroused over this—not against the young man, but against the condition that made him its victim.

They may save this one man. But there are hundreds of thousands like him. What can be done for them?

IN APRIL.

From the middle of April till the latter part of the month we shall hear bad news—financial reports of corporations for the first quarter of 1938.

Wall Street is of two opinions—one, that the bad news is largely discounted; two, that it is not.

The action of security markets recently—bad as it is—might not have discounted enough, according to some observers. But who can guess the rise and fall of prices?

The reports, however, are likely to be worse than had been expected a month ago.

LO, THE INSURANCE AGENT!

Somebody handed us a pamphlet from a C. I. O. insurance workers' union. It makes a plea for better conditions for insurance agents.

We have not been particularly cordial to insurance agents, but perhaps this will change our mind (and improve business for the companies):

"Constant pressure for sales, fear of discrimination, and loss of our jobs for 'non-production,' forces us to pay to the company large slices of our salaries. The threat of insecurity prompts the agent to pay for unpaid premiums out of his salary. A whole series of deductions leave him scarcely enough at the end of the week for his family. The day's work is never done . . ."

* * *

"NEVER DONE . . ."

Incidentally, is the day's work ever done for anyone?

Modern life has speeded the momentum of our race against time. Again and again men (and women) make this remark these days. Even those of us who have work, from the very top to the lowest rung, labor harder and endlessly lest we miss a rung and fall to oblivion.

What is wrong? Can the world endure this maddened pace? Is it any wonder that entire nations go beserk, that masses of men lose their reason and that two of the most inhuman wars in history rage unchecked?

Looking Back

TWENTY YEARS AGO TODAY

Thursday, Jan. 31, 1918.

Son was born to Mr. and Mrs. Walter Whitner, 48 Bell street.

FIVE YEARS AGO TODAY

Rita Carroll, George Blecker, Ruhland Isaly and Viola Schnitzer had roles in the Community play, "Broken Dishes."

Mrs. Avery Hand, jr., and Mrs. Roger Black were on the program at the Tuesday Book club.

Son was born to Mr. and Mrs. Howard Keener, 3 Dunhilt court.

D. W. Cope, 8 Maple place, received word of the illness of his brother, J. M. Cope, at Woodstock, Ont.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Gibson, Brinkerhoff avenue, were the grandparents of a son born to Mr and Mrs. Paul Eakin, Shaker Heights.

TODAY IS—

Your Son's House Will Be Different

If your son and his wife buy a house in 1970, it won't look much like the home you're living in now, according to Marcus Duffield, writing in the January Commentator. There will be:

No basement. Heating units will be contained in a pantry built vertically like a cone through the center of the house.

No attic. Instead there will be a flat inclosed roof, to be used as a playground for both children and adults.

No windows that open. Air-conditioning will include proper humidity, elimination of kitchen odors, enough ozone to make it bracing.

No carpets. All floors will be of a soft but durable composition material, pneumatically inflated, so that you will literally be walking on air, and children can tumble without getting bumps.

Changeable color schemes. Your son will be able to change the color scheme at will, by means of lights. If he is having a party, gay yellows and reds will be in order; if he is tired, restful blues and greens will soothe him. His walls may be silvery today, orange tomorrow.

Flexible walls. He can also change the shape and even the number of rooms. Partitions within the house will bear none of the weight of the building, and hence will be easily movable.

Listen, World!

Young America Has Its Say About The Old-Fashioned Gentleman.

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

JOHN GERIEN of Queens Village, Long Island, has heard plenty about the virtues of Ye Old-Fashioned Girl. Now he suggests a search for "SOME OLD-FASHIONED FELLOWS LIKE OUR FATHERS USED TO BE."

"The fellow," says John, "who, when a lady gets on a street car, quickly rises, tips his hat and offers her a seat—

" . . . who, when he has taken a nice girl to a show, doesn't expect to spend the rest of the night parked in a car down some back alley, drinking, smoking and mauling the young lady—

"...who, when he makes a date to call on a girl, expects to come inside and meet her people, instead of spending the time in some bar room, listening to risque stories—

"...who, when he takes the marriage vows, expects to be true to one woman for life, and not run around, playing with three or four, when he can't even support one decently—

"...who believes in himself, the human race and God—and tries to live up to every fine ideal and obligation.

"IS THERE SUCH A MAN IN THE WORLD TODAY?

Queens Village, L. I.
($10 prize winner)

A grand letter, John, but I don't agree with your conclusion. To the contrary, I believe there are just as many decent, honest, high-minded men in the world today as there ever were. Their superficial manner may have changed.

In a world where women have demanded and assumed industrial equality, men may not lift their hats or make as many flattering remarks as the lads of 1838 did. BUT WHEN IT COMES TO ACTUAL PERFORMANCE, AS EVIDENCED BY OUR LAWS, YOU'LL FIND THAT THE MODERN MALE SHOWS HIS LADY LOVE MORE COURTESY AND CONSIDERATION.

That's my opinion. But maybe YOU don't agree. If so, let's hear your answer to this—DOES THE MODERN MALE GIVE HIS SWEETHEART OR WIFE A BETTER OR WORSE DEAL THAN HIS GRANDPA DID?

SYNTHETIC personalities...here's a peppy, pretty Miss America who doesn't believe in them. "BE REAL...NOT SOMEBODY'S ECHO!" says Jane Meredith of New York City.

"Dear Elsie Robinson—

"I've a bone to pick with Young America on this business of BEING A STOOGE...trying to be an IMITATION of some famous person instead of one's real self.

"Here's Sally, aged 16 and a junior in H. S.—someone tells her she 'looks so much like Ginger Rogers.' Forthwith, Sally dashes home to spend long hours in front of her mirror, copy Ginger's hair—do and mannerisms. She then descends on her unsuspecting parents, demanding tap-dancing lessons and a dancing costume which is identical with Ginger's latest.

"Or perhaps it's Jim, aged 17, with a sudden bad case of Hero Worship for a famous baseball star. Overnight Jimmy develops said star's Brooklyn accent and swagger. It's all pretty silly—and useless.

"FIFTEEN ISN'T TOO YOUNG FOR BOYS AND GIRLS TO START DEVELOPING PERSONALITIES OF THEIR OWN, MAKING REAL PEOPLE OF THEMSELVES INSTEAD OF IMITATING OTHER PEOPLE. FAMOUS PEOPLE ARE WHERE AND WHAT THEY ARE TODAY, NOT BECAUSE THEY COPIED SOMEBODY ELSE, BUT BECAUSE THEY HAD THE COURAGE AND SENSE TO DEVELOP THEIR OWN IDIVIDUALITY.

"My advise to youngsters is to take whatever talent they may possess, whether it be singing, dancing, law, medicine or plain housekeeping, and develop it to the best of their ability. Meanwhile they'll be unconsciously building an honest personality of their own."

Jane Meredith—aged 24,
New York, N. Y.
($10 prize winner)

That's telling them, Jane...and and needed by thousands who have long since passed the 'teen stage.

And here's a blast from 16-year-old Eleen Davies of Denver, Colo., which, I'm wagering, dozens of indignant Girl Friends will clip for the bulletin board.

"Dear Miss Robinson—

"I'M ON A CAMPAIGN AGAINST BOYS! Not all boys, of course, but most of those I know. How these young men could use a dose of manners! They expect their dates to be perfect in etiquette and grooming—but how do THEY act?

"They arrive looking like something the cat dragged in and then, instead of coming in like gentlemen and meeting the girl's parents, they sit outside and make an unholy racket tooting the horn until she appears. When they do come in, it's even worse. They put their feet on the sofa and call poor, long-suffering Dad 'Ol' Boy,' and generally manage to make a nuisance of themselves.

"Don't you thing there 'oughtta be a law'?"

"Eleen Davies—aged 16
Denver, Colo."

Timely Editorial

Deep Strategy.

So we now have it on the word of a presidential adviser that the inflammatory Ickes-Jackson speeches were merely an administration way of shouting boo from behind the door so that business leaders would be frightened and ready for "co-operation" when they were met with a smile at the White House!

This is clever, deucedly clever, an Englishman would say. It suggests that hobgoblins from the dark might be substituted for rabbits from the hat, the supply of which now is exhausted.

But doesn't it rather spoil the strategy to let the trick out so soon? Suppose it should be deemed necessary to frighten somebody again. Then there might have to be a new device and quite a bit of trouble that otherwise could have been avoided. But of course the forgotten man would be vastly entertained by the whole game.—Kansas City Times.

How It Started

—By JEAN NEWTON

"Kissing Goes by Favor."

"Lord!" sneered Jonathan Swift. "I wonder what fool it was that first invented kissing."

Perhaps the great satirist's query sprang from sour grapes, perhaps from lack of appreciation; in any event, objection to his question would have to be sustained, laymen as well as lawyer will agree, on the ground that it is conclusory.

For "kiss" and "choose" are not only proverbially but physically, that is, instrinsically, etymologically related, or, as the case may be, connected.

The root of "kiss" is the Anglo-Saxon cyssan; "choose" is from the Anglo-Saxon ceossan; both probably spring from the Sanscrit jush, to enjoy.

Causes of Kidney Stones Sought By Physicians

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

I am frequently asked whether diet has anything to do with the formation of kidney stones, and whether any diet will prevent their formation.

A great many different ideas have been held in the past on this subject. The medical profession, in general, is pretty skeptical of the value of any of them. Certainly they have been pretty unscientific. Thus tomatoes have been supposed to cause kidney stones, but there is no basis for such a belief. Meat is also incriminated.

The nearest approach to a scientific view of the matter has been advanced by a Cleveland physician, eminent in the field of urology. He points out that there is a geographical distribution of kidney stones. They are extremely frequent, for instance, in India, and extremely infrequent in Normandy. There are stone areas which were mapped out long ago in Great Britain.

This physician also points out that the frequency of stone in children has greatly decreased over what it was seventy-five years ago. Carefully made comparative statistics of London hospitals show this decrease. He ascribes it to the improvement in the nutrition of children, which has been marked in the last few years, especially in the matter of a diet high in vitamins. Experimentally it has been found that rats who are deprived of Vitamin A have, among other things, a very high incidence of kidney stones.

On this basis we may reason that kidney stones are due to three factors: first, an alkaline urine; second, keratinization or hardening of the cells of the pelvis of the kidney, and, third, infection. We know that Vitamin A has something to do with all of these things; that Vitamin A alone will change an alkaline to an acid urine (which is what it ought to be normally), will reduce keratinization and help to prevent infection.

A diet high in Vitamin A, which is also high in acid-ash, is possibly one which will prevent kidney stones. No one, of course, can live on such a diet all his life, but those who are subject to stones and have had one operation may go on this diet as a trial.

Acid-ash foods are as follows: white bread, whole wheat bread, sweet dried corn, crackers, cranberries, eggs, egg white, egg yolk, fish — haddock and pike — lean beef, chicken, frog, lean pork, rabbit, veal, oysters, oatmeal, peanuts, prunes, plums and rice.

McIntyre's New York Day by Day

IN THE manner of Arnold Bennett's journal: Zanuck, the movie mogul, being dined at the high and mighty Union club by the Banker Aldrich, shows how producers are sharing in the spotlight of stars. Yet perhaps best remembered is the self-effacing Irving Thalberg.

A learned and philosophic friend out Minneapolis way has lost his sense of smell at 54 but is not unhappy. He finds much that is compensatory. Among them the ability to eat cabbage, a dish he loved but the aroma of which was faintly oopsie.

I was wondering at breakfast why a man has such a feeling of security, after tolerating a broken shoe lace for several days, upon securing a new one. Isaac Marcossen is in a lather about Eugene Lyon's book on Russia, "Assignment in Utopia." I must read it.

Somehow this pleases me. I hear reliably that the charming former Belasco star, Blanche Bates, likes to sit in a rocking chair at the dinner table. Few give way to such urges. I always want to tuck my napkin in my collar, but lack the courage.

Strange about Babe Ruth and those once so sturdy legs. They bothered him into retirement from the diamond, yet he can walk all day on the golf course or indulge long hunts without a twinge. Apparently a psychosis that needs mental ironing. A distant relative of our family had a useless arm from a bullet at Santiago. On a visit to us one day he was resting on the porch when a ball batted by boys in the street smashed toward his head. In a flash he reached out and caught it with the useless arm.

They may not get the six figured salaries but few radio comics have more fun than Col. Stoopnagle and Budd—always in quest of the elusive sponsor. They are pals professionally and away from mike and are just as goofy in their hilarity at private parties. When Rube Goldberg ties in with them it is a rout. Stoopnagle is sheriff of Wilson's Point, Ct. His wife is a marvel in barbecuing spareribs and now and then they invite the countryside which brings H. T. Webster, Heywood Broun, et al, on the gallop. Oh, yes, the Stoopnagle spaniel is "Sponsor." Dr. A. J. Cronin has a dandy name for his wire-haired —"Twitch."

Gene Tunney has not forgotten his long walks and exchange of philosophic palaver with George Bernard Shaw on the island of Brione during the undefeated champion's honeymoon days. In the living room of his estate near Greenwich he has a life-sized bust of Shaw. Tunney grows increasingly aloof. Not even the auspicious first night attracts him any more. His relaxations include tramps through the woods, chopping, and now and then playing softball with Lowell Thomas' literary sluggers. Recently Tunney has accepted several directorates and has a business office on Park avenue, but much of his time is spent in his library. Speaking of softball, Homer Croy, a one-gallused nipper in the grass roots, had never played ball of any sort until he became a softball addict. George Ade is another softball enthusiast.

Not many marks left for Eddie Eagan to shoot at. The ex-heavyweight champion is a bridge expert of the same kidney as Culbertson and Lenz. A notable example of how the clean living athlete may enjoy life. He has seen the world and enjoyed its good things. And like so many of the accomplishers, never allows conversation to swing around to his achievements.

How appealing unfeigned modesty! Still topping the list to me is Lindbergh's simple postulate on the Paris flying field: "I am Charles Lindbergh!" Metropolitan life is surfeited with attitude strikers and exhibitionists. A dinner at, say "No 21," makes me thoroughly ashamed of the human variety with its blurbings and gesturings. No writing man won more of my genuine admiration than James Barrie. Although I read little of his works and was never particularly thrilled by his plays. But he was a master at that long lost New York art — self-effacement. Daniel Frohman, past 80, is a chain cigar smoker. Many years his junior, just a few puffs at a full sized cigar and I'm hanging—no pun intended—to the rope.

CHINESE KILL 1,000 JAPS IN BITTER CLASH

SHANGHAI—(AP)—Chinese dispatches from the bitterly-contested Tientsin-Pukow railway front today asserted 1,000 Japanese soldiers had been killed in heavy fighting which resulted in a severe Japanese repulse.

Battles were reported from many points along the railway south of the vital junction with the Lughai line at Suchow, but the main action occurred at Mingkwang, about 125 miles south of Suchow. The dispatches told of Chinese successes there and at other strategic points.

Pengpu, approximately 95 miles south of Suchow, has been the focal point of the Japanese advance northward from Nanking. Another column has been attempting to march southward toward Suchow from bases in Shantung province.

Japs Held Captive.

Chinese asserted their forces had captured a large number of Japanese prisoners near Mingkwang, and announced successes in continuous guerilla warfare on all fronts.

White Russian truck drivers employed by Japanese to transport war materials to Nanking refused to make additional trips without convoys because of Chinese guerrilla activities along the roads.

Japanese earlier had announced that in the last 48 hours "at least 3,000 Chinese" had been slain on the southern fringe of the Lunghai front and in the Wuhu and Soochow areas of the Yangtze river battlefront.

Millions of Chinese, meanwhile, celebrated the start of traditional Chinese new year festivities with temple services, feasts in their homes, and explosion of firecrackers — except in Shanghai, where firecrackers were banned.

TALKS TONIGHT

O. S. U. Professor to Discuss Propaganda at Church.

Dr. Peter H. Odegard, lecturer and professor of political science at Ohio State university, will speak at 8 p. m. today at the First Presbyterian church under the auspices of the Mansfield Council of Parents and Teachers.

Dr. Odegard will discuss "Propaganda—Menace or Messiah." In his talk he will analyze the media of propaganda in modern times via the spoken word, newspapers, movies, and radio, and their effect both good and bad upon the undiscriminating mind, and the power to form public opinion.

A musical program will precede the talk by Dr. Odegard. Organ music will be furnished by Mrs. Rhea Twitchell, organist at the First Presbyterian church, and a clarinet quartet composed of members of the Senior high school band.

HUNT BODIES OF DESIGNER, WIFE

FLAGSTAFF, Ariz — (AP) — A posse pushed across a wooded mountain top behind a snow plow today toward the blackened spot where Gerard V. Vultee, noted airplane designer, and his wife died in their flaming plane.

Halting occassionally to warm themselves over small fires, the truckload of searchers hoped to recover the bodies of Vultee, 38, and his 27-year-old wife, Sylvia, whose (Stinson) monoplane crashed in a snowstorm Saturday.

RUBBER BOAT SAVES FLIERS

SEATTLE — (AP) — Five navy fliers were grateful to a little rubber boat today. It saved their lives.

The men were flying a giant sealane, one of a squadron of six, from Seattle to Sitka when engine trouble forced it down on shoals off Goose island, 300 miles north of Vancouver, B. C.

Waves pounded the plane to pieces. The men took to the water in their emergency rubber boat and fought the waves until a fishing smack picked them up uninjured.

SLAYER HUNTED

Woman Says She Was Attacked By Man Who Killed Escort.

NORFOLK, Va.—(AP)—Norfolk county police searched today for a colored man who, they were told, shot to death Cecil C. Sivills, 30, of Portsmouth, and criminally attacked a woman companion late last night on the outskirts of Portsmouth.

County Officer J. W. Rountree said the young woman, who gave her name as Daisy Brown, told him the man marched the two some distance from their parked automobile and then shot the man and attacked her.

Miss Armstrong will devote her entire time to the handling of dependent children and blind cases. Included in the efderal Social Security program, the cases are provided for by funds from the federal and state governments and a special county appropriation. In the county, the administration of the dependent children and blind funds is under the department of public welfare.

At its session tomorrow night, approval of funds already appropriated for four new city cars, will be asked of council. Two would be police squad cars, and the others would be a truck for the street department and a car for Service-Safety Director Tracy C. Styert.

A request will be made for $600 to remedy the sidewalk-road level problem on Remy avenue, where the sidewalk is three feet higher than the road level. The appropriation would be used to lower the sidewalk to the street level.

Council will also be asked to approve the erection of a memorial flag pole in Liberty park for the late Frank Fisch, former Mansfield high school and Ohio State football star, who was killed in an airplane accident in Texas last fall. The memorial committee has raised $310 for the flag pole and base, but as the park has been turned over to the city, council must approve the memorial before work can be started on it.

TWO ISOLATED

Patients at Hospital Ill With Scarlet Fever.

Two cases of scarlet fever were in isolation today at General hospital while several persons who came in contact with the patients were isolated for observation.

The two cases were discovered late last week in two of the wards. Five persons who came in contact with them were placed under observation, but two have since been taken home, according to Dr. Roy C. Rehder, health commissioner.

Harold Bridges, 605 Central avenue, and Donald Young, 6, of Loudonville, were found to have scarlet fever after they had been admitted to the hospital. The Young child was injured when a shotgun shell with which he was playing on a hot stove, exploded.

Gasoline Leaking Into Sewer Cause of Bucyrus Alarm

BUCYRUS—Bucyrus city firemen were afforded a few anxious minutes early Sunday morning when the Oberlander gasoline station on Hopley avenue reported an underground gasoline tank leaking into the sewers in the vicinity.

Investigation by the fire department revealed that a nearby full tank of gasoline had emptied into the sewers.

While several members of the department spread a "Paul Revere" of several blocks in the vicinity, warning residents to open basement windows and turn off open flames in the basements, other members of the department opened water hydrants and flushed the leaking gasoline to the river.

Many residents in the neighborhood reported their basements filled with gas odors when they arose Sunday morning.

BUCYRUS WIDOW TAKEN BY DEATH

Mrs. Magdalina Unger, 72, To Be Buried Tuesday Afternoon.

BUCYRUS — Mrs. Magdalina Anna Unger, 72, widow of Charles F. Unger, died at her home here Saturday following a lingering illness. She was born in Crawford county Jan. 11, 1866, and had spent her entire life in this vicinity.

Surviving are a son, Fred of Bucyrus; three sisters, Mrs. Amelia Flocken of Marion; Mrs. Martha Dininger of Galion and Mrs. W. Jump of Menert, O.; four brothers, George Steiger of Ada; Emanuel, David and Moses Steiger of Bucyrus and a granddaughter.

Funeral services will be held at the Wise funeral home at 1:30 p. m. Tuesday in charge of Rev. E. F. C. Stahl. Burial will be in the Oakwood cemetery.

portent of another change in the court membership. Many persons close to the court believe the ailing jurist may resign his post, thus giving Mr. Roosevelt a third appointment to the bench.

Reed, former solicitor general entered the court chamber at noon with the other justices of the court and went immediately to the desk of Cropley. There he raised his hand and solemnly swore to the oath required of all judges of U. S. courts:

"I, Stanley Forman Reed, do solemnly swear that I will administer justice without respect to persons, and do equal right to the poor and to the rich, and that I will faithfully and impartially discharge and perform all the duties incumbent upon me as association justice of the supreme court of the United States according to the best of my abilities and understanding, agreeably to the Constitution and laws of the United States; so help me God."

He thereby became Associate Justice Stanley Reed, the 77th person to serve as a supreme court justice, and immediately took his place on the bench.

Prior to his appearance in the court room Reed had taken the oath swearing to uphold the constitution required of all employes of the government. This oath was administered by the chief justice.

'MONSTER' IN MOBILE HUNTED

MOBILE, Ala—(U.P.)—Police patroled Mobile's "dark town" today, disarming frightened residents who had been firing wildly at anything they believed to be "the monster of Maromette street."

The section has been upset for three weeks by reports that a strange creature, having "a ring of white, phosphorescent hair" round its neck and "scales like a dinosaur," is roaming the valleys in the northern part of the city.

Chief of Police Warren F. Burch, fearing the "hunters" might shoot each other in their frantic search for the "monster," ordered the arrest of all persons carrying guns. That drastic action followed an outburst of gunfire in Fisher's alley, a shabby section.

'PETE' HENRY'S FATHER, 72, DIES

Was Reformatory Employe For Many Years, Retiring a Month Ago.

Ulysses S. Henry, 72, of 8 North Adams street, father of Wilbur F. Henry, athletic director at Washington & Jefferson college, Washington, Pa., died early Sunday at his home.

A retired Reformatory employe, Mr. Henry, a lifelong resident of this vicinity, had been in failing health for two years. He was born near Lucas, March 25, 1865.

Mr. Henry retired Jan. 1 after serving 32 years at the institution. Employed as a mail censor at the time of his retirement, Mr. Henry was one of the oldest men in point of service at the reformatory. He held various positions at the reformatory during his employment.

At a dinner at which Mr. Henry and other retiring employes were honored in December, he received a gold pocket piece in recognition of his service. The award bore the state seal of Ohio on one side and Mr. Henry's name and service record on the other.

He was a member of the First Lutheran church and Mansfield lodge, 35, F. & A. M.

Survivors are his wife, Bertha, and his son, who won all-time All-America honors at W. & J. The son was the principal speaker at The News-Journal football banquet staged for the Mansfield high school team in December.

Mr. Henry's body was removed to the Wappner funeral home where services will be held at 2 p. m. Tuesday with Rev. G. E. Swoyer of the First Lutheran church officiating. Burial will be in Mansfield cemetery.

SEEK WOMAN IN SHOOTING CASE

Washington Police Probe Wounding of Assistant Attorney General

WASHINGTON— (U.P.)—Russell Hardy, special assistant to Attorney General Homer S Cummings, denied today that he was accompanied by a woman when he was shot in front of an Alexandria, Va. hotel Saturday night.

Held under $500 bail as a material witness in his own shooting, Hardy is confined to a Washington hospital where he will undergo a minor operation today for removal of a bullet from his thigh.

Alexandria police, who are investigating the case, said they were searching for a woman "in a brown hat and brown coat" for questioning. Witnesses said, according to police, that a woman had accompanied Hardy.

FIND 5 BODIES

Searchers Believe Crew Of 15 Aboard Trawler Perished.

LONDON—(AP)—The discovery today of five bodies washed up on Hoy, one of the Orkney islands, together with a piece of wreckage from the Grimsby Trawler Leicestershire led to the belief the vessel and her crew of 15 had been lost in Saturday's severe storm.

said. "The fact is that they walked off the job. I ordered them to go out and audit some liquor store accounts and they refused to do so."

The committee had requested that the two investigators be "loaned" to it but Ferguson refused on the ground that he had no authority to transfer them.

Ferguson said he had been absent from his office for several weeks because he was helping county relief authorities in inaugurating the new relief program. His office is required to make a pre-audit of relief expenses.

The auditor said he would turn over to the committee evidence in connection with the payment of "commissions" on gasoline sold to the state by the Columbia Refining Co. of Cleveland. Company officials testified they paid "commissions" to G. Lloyd Weil, former Akron mayor.

Replying to a charge of Sen. J. Ralph Seidner, chairman of the graft committee, that Ferguson was not in Des Moines, Ia., as his office reported, Ferguson showed bills of a Des Moines hotel dated Jan. 5 and 6. He said he was attending a conference of liquor administrators.

"I am for the senate investigation and my office has done everything we have been able to do for the committee," Ferguson said. "After all, it's their investigation. They didn't come in with me and help me last spring when I was trying to investigate the highway and liquor departments."

The committee will meet again Wednesday.

SECOND PLAY

'Kind Lady' to Be Given at High School Tuesday.

The second Community Players show of the season will be presented at 8:15 p. m. Tuesday at Senior high school auditorium, when a cast of newcomers will be seen in "Kind Yady."

All of the major roles will be taken by players who are making their debut in this play, with the exception of Miss Betty Osbun, who plays the title role. She will be remembered for a telling bit of character work in "Counsellor At Law."

The story revolves around an English woman who invites a stranger off the street into her home on an impulse, and which launches a strange chain of mysterious and amazing events in which the "kind lady" is made a prisoner in her own home and an attempt made to take her fortune by trickery.

BLAST CAUSES BURGLARY SCARE

700 Villagers Hurry To Bank After Steam Explosion.

FINDLAY — (U.P.) — When an explosion was heard in the Farmers' and Merchants' bank at Arlington, nine miles south of here, 700 villagers poured into Main street late Sunday thinking burglars had blown the bank's safe.

They learned, however, the explosion was caused by steam accumulated in the bank's heating system. Anson Swank, bank president who had fired the furnace two hours earlier, said he believed a check valve failed to to work.

Windows of the bank and the postoffice at the rear were shattered. Damage was estimated at $1,000.

Volunteer firemen assisted Frances and Winifred Fasig, who reside in an apartment over the bank, from their steam-filled quarters.

TRIAL RESUMES

More Character Witnesses Called In Wright Murder Case.

LOS ANGELES—(AP)—The defense called upon more character witnesses today as Paul A. Wright, former airport manager, awaited his chance to tell why he killed his wife and his friend.

Wright is charged with shooting Evelyn Wright and John Kimmel in the living room of the Wright home Nov. 9. He has declared he found them in such a compromising situation he killed them in a rage.

Rotary Program To Show 'March Of Scouting' Here

The program will be in the nature of a panoramic view of scouting activities in Mansfield since the founding of the movement here 18 years ago. The aims, objects, activities, and accomplishments of scouting will be given in the review.

Taking part in the program will be six members of the club, L. A. Ott, president of the Johnny Appleseed Area, Paul Stephens, Herbert Slough, Charles Siegenthaler, Oliver Henkel, and Louis Hartman. A representative from each rank in scouting also will participate.

The scout movement in Mansfield was first sponsored 18 years ago by the Rotary club.

Floyd Dent, area scout executive, is chairman for the meeting, and Ott will be in charge of the program.

FILMS STILL GOOD

HELENA, Ark.—(U.P.)—A man here developed some camera films after having forgotten them 22 years. The prints showed up well. Dr. B. D. Schrantz took the pictures in 1915, had the negatives developed and put them aside, planning to have them printed "later." He was cleaning house recently and found them.

PONTIAC SALES CLIMB AGAIN

1937 Total 70,000 Over Year Previous; Weidner Motors Gains In County.

Pontiac's increasing sales provide undisputable evidence of this car's growing popularity among auto buyers, C. J. Solomon, manager of the Weidner Motors Sales, East Second street, Mansfield distributor for Pontiac, said today.

Last year 236,186 Pontiacs were sold, an increase of more than 70,000 over 1936 figures. In 1935 the sales totalled 117,702 units, considerably more than the 72,645 cars sold in 1934.

Weidner sales also climbed last year in proportion to the increase throughout the nation. The Mansfield agency sold 216 new models in 1937 as compared to 121 in 1936.

The Pontiac sales in Richland county also rose from sixth in 1936 to fourth last year. Only three lower priced cars, Ford, Plymouth and Chevrolet, topped Pontiac in the county in 1937.

Underwood Adding Machine Upholds Claims In Tests

Operators of Underwood Sundstrand portable electric adding machines tap out figures from 15 to 25 per cent faster than on similar machines, tests and demonstrations have proved.

Only the fingers of the right hand of the operator are on the condensed 10-key keyboard. The tests showed that when the operator doesn't have to move her eyes to look at the keyboard the work moves faster.

"There is no multiplicity of keys to make busy fingers grope." T. G. Bigler, Mansfield agent for the Sundstrand machines points out. Mr. Bigler is proprietor of the Bigler Typewriter and Adding Machine exchange. "There is no complex mechanism to cause constant head-swinging between work and machine. On the Underwood machine there is not an unnecessary key on the entire keyboard."

A the last New York Business show, the Sundstrand machine was demonstrated daily by a girl 11 years old to prove the simplicity in its operation. The child practiced an hour a day before the show and was listing items the first day of the show at the rate of 2,280 an hour. Before the show was over, her rate of speed had increased to approximately 3,500 items an hour, upholding Underwood's claim that an operator can attain an amazing speed in a comparatively short time.

DISCOVERY OF COAL

An enterprising miner, who in 1812 discovered that a hard black substance found underground on his Pennsylvania property would burn, took 9 wagon loads of the substance—coal—to Philadelphia and after selling only 2 loads had to give the other seven away because dubious persons denounced it as a fraud.

SAPLINGS FOR STEEL

Saplings are used in making steel. Some steel companies buy thousands of young saplings a year from American farmers to use in stirring ladles of molten steel.

7-ACT SHOW TO OPEN TONIGHT

Greystone Presents Variety Entertainment; Reduces Admission Charge.

A new seven-act floor show opens a one-week stand at the Greystone Nite club, West Fourth and Walnut streets, tonight. Playing for dancing will be Kenny Hoffman and his orchestra who have become favorites of the city's night club life in their long engagement at the Greystone.

A reduction in the admission charge effective immediately also was announced by Manager Pete Disanze of the Greystone. The new fee will be 15 cents during the week and 25 cents a person on Saturday nights.

"We will continue to show the same high class talent as in the past in all our floor shows," Manager Disanze said. "The Greystone policy of bringing the best in the night club entertainment world to Mansfield will be in no ways effected by the reduction in price."

Under the new schedule adopted since the city's night club closing ordinance went into effect, floor shows are presented each evening during the week at 10:30 p. m. and 12:30 a. m. except Saturday nights when the schedule is 9:30 and 11:30 p. m. The Greystone is closed Sundays.

The seven acts in the new program opening tonight include the Dixon Sisters in a military tap; Lovey Stacy, acrobatic dancing; Johnny Elliott, master of ceremonies and comedy number; Dixon sisters, harmony; Phil and Dotty, novelty; Lovey Stacy, chain dance, and Dixon sister in a collegiate comedy.

TIMKEN BUILDS HUGE FURNACE

CANTON — (U.P.) — Already the world's largest producer of electric furnace steel, the Timken Roller Bearing company has begun construction on another 50-ton unit, officials announced today.

The new furnace is of the arc type and is part of a $450,000 improvement program, which will include an extension of its melting shop, enlargement of its soaking pits and the installation of a central oxygen plant.

NO ACCIDENTS

Thirty-six milk drivers, including one Mansfielder, Clifford Hall, with a record of more than 1,000,000 miles without a chargeable accident, have been honored by executives and safety officials of the Telling-Belle Vernon company in an annual safety campaign at the company's headquarters in Cleveland.

Company officials pointed out that the 36 drivers represented over 216 years of driving with a chargeable accident despite the fact that every driver is daily covering heavily-congested streets.

Henry S. Them Opens New Watch Trade Shop Here

Henry S. Them, a veteran of 17 years experience in the jewelry business in Mansfield has opened a watch trade shop at 508 Walpark building, corner of Park avenue west and Walnut street.

In his new shop, Mr. Them will handle watch repair work for jewelers in Mansfield and vicinity as well as for individuals. With the latest and finest equipment available in his trade, he will be in position to give one-day service in watch repairs and cleaning.

Another innovation is being introduced by the shop. Work will be called for and delivered. The phone number is Canal 1874.

TIRE MILEAGE

Thirty years ago the average motorists had an annual tire bill of about $176. Today, the average car owner spends less than one-tenth that amount for tires every year and gets about seven times as much mileage per tire.
